BRITAIN BRACED FOR NAZI BLITZ

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—Great Britain's defenses against a German invasion from the east were keyed to a high pitch today under a new warning such an attack may be imminent.

NILE PATROL—Fearful of Fifth Column work, the government of Egypt keeps a watchful eye on all bridges and rivers . . . and here, in Cairo, a machine gun armed launch approaches boat (background) to question the crew.

While feeling secure against a smash from the east, however, new fears arose of a German invasion of Ireland and a consequent blockade of England on the west.

The nation's confidence in its defenses was strengthened by yesterday's greatest air battles of the war over England in which British fighter planes beat off massed German bomber-and-fighter raids, shooting down 14 and damaging 23 "so severely that they were unlikely to reach home."

After this intensified attack Sir Edward Grigg, war undersecretary, told Commons last night:

"Tonight thousands of our soldiers will be on the alert, waiting for an attack which may come in several places at dawn."

IRISH FEAR GROWS

Most members of Parliament interpreted this remark as intended to emphasize that Britain's defense forces always are ready nowadays. Dawn came without any indication of a German attempt at invasion.

Britain's concern over the situation of Ireland has increased greatly.

Lord Craigavon, prime minister of Northern Ireland, told Belfast Commons today that Prime Minister Eamon de Valera of the Irish Republic (Eire) had definitely rejected his proposals for joint defense of the two parts of Ireland and that this ended the matter as far as he (Craigavon) was concerned.

Craigavon added Northern Ireland—a part of the United Kingdom—was at war and would stand by Britain and the empire to the end.

Britain fears Ireland may be invaded and a blockade of England then attempted. With Germans already controlling the continental channel coasts, their presence at England's back door would be extremely menacing.

WARNS OF INVASION

It is only 22 miles across the north channel from Donaghadee, near Belfast, to Portpatrick, Scotland; 61 miles across the Irish sea from Dublin to Holyhead, England, and 54 miles across St. George's channel from Rosslare, to Goodwick, Wales.

Only Tuesday night Ireland's

Italians Claim Air Bombers Damage Hood, Ark Royal

By the Associated Press

ROME, July 11—Bomb hits on two of the mightiest units of the British fleet—the battle cruiser Hood and the aircraft carrier Ark Royal—were announced today by the Italian high command, fitting further details into the Italian account of Monday's and Tuesday's battle of the Mediterranean.

The 42,100-ton Hood, the world's largest warship, was said by the Italian communique to have been set afire, while two heavy bombs fell on the deck of the 22,000-ton Ark Royal.

The British Admiralty issued a formal denial of the Italian claim.—Editor's Note.

The attack was delivered Tuesday, south of the Baleares islands, on a British squadron which had come out from Gibraltar apparently seeking a western Mediterranean fight in conjunction with the British and Italian naval engagement at the same time in the Ionian sea.

The Ionian clash itself had started out as an Italian air attack on a British battle squadron on Monday and, through a westward movement by the British, became on Tuesday a clash of warships.

ITALY'S CLAIMS

The Italian command yesterday limited its announcement of results in the Baleares zone engagement to the statement that the British formation was "subjected to violent day-long bombing, with evidence of effective results." In the tabulation of battle results, Italy now claims: Bomb damage to the Hood and Ark Royal; the "believed" sinking of a warship—probably a

Congress Rallies to Total Defense Plan

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Congress, rallying to a call for "total defense," manifested a general readiness today to approve President Roosevelt's request for another $4,848,171,957 to advance the preparedness program.

Promises of support for the huge recommendation were coupled with widespread applause for the Chief Executive's pledge that no American troops would be sent to fight in old world wars.

His latest extraordinary defense message—the third in less than two months—went to Capitol Hill yesterday afternoon within a few hours of two other major developments.

N.E. DEFENSE 'DEPLORABLY WEAK,' CONGRESS IS TOLD

WASHINGTON, July 11 (INS)—A far-reaching proposal that the United States acquire and fortify fleet and air bases in Nova Scotia and Bermuda as a part of a defense system for the Atlantic northeast was made today by a House military affairs sub-committee.

The sub-committee, composed of Reps. Faddis (D.) of Pennsylvania, Smith (D.) of Connecticut, and Byrnes (D.) of Tennessee, made its report to the full committee after a personal investigation of harbor defenses from New York to Maine.

Declaring that coast defenses in the Atlantic northeast are in "a deplorably weak condition," the sub-committee urged a 10-point program of modernization and expansion.

"Even if bases were strongly fortified and securely held in Nova Scotia and Bermuda, the harbors of the northeast must be denied to any enemy seeking to land mechanized forces or destructive raids or full scale invasion," the sub-committee report said.

Expansion of coast defenses is necessary to protect the vast New England industrial region, the sub-committee asserted.

"The loss of this vital area to an invader," the report said, "would be an irreparable blow to this nation in time of war. Here also is the strategic point for an entering wedge to separate this nation and Canada."

The sub-committee did not expand on its recommendation that fleet and air bases be acquired in Canadian and British territory. The report proposed:

1—full officer and enlisted men complement to man harbor defenses.

2—Rehabilitation of all serviceable guns.

3—Construction of new air fields as well as improvement of existing fields, the fields to be sod and buildings constructed as ordinary farmhouses.

4—Speed up acquisition of mobile anti-aircraft material, aircraft, motor torpedo boats of the navy, mines, fire control equipment and heavy modern long range sea coast batteries.

5—Procurement of equipment and training of personnel for anti-aircraft batteries around cities containing vital installations.

6—Organization as rapidly as possible of additional mechanized divisions of army. At least one corps should be maintained at all times in New England area.

G. O. P. Convention Periled by 7 Bombs

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine said today a number of bombs were found in Philadelphia while the Republican national convention was in session in that city. He did not say how many.

INTERLUDE—To wed Saturday in the Sacred Heart of Jesus Church in Southampton, L. I., Henry Ford, 2d, son of Edsel Ford and grandson of the auto magnate, and his bride-to-be, Anne McDonnell, engage in a pre-nuptial whirl . . . and visit New York night club. Miss McDonnell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. McDonnell, Gotham-Southampton socialites.

Nor did he say anything about where the bombs were found, but another responsible official said some of them were constructed in a meeting hall where Communists frequently gather.

Valentine made the disclosure in a talk to his detective force, in which he asserted that the bomb explosion at the World's Fair July 4 which killed two detectives "is just the beginning."

FOUND 7 BOMBS

The voice of the veteran and hardened peace officer choked with emotion as he spoke of the two victims of the bomb and declared the department was out to "get" the perpetrators of the plot, convict them and "have them sentenced to their proper punishment—electrocution."

It was learned from another high police source that about seven bombs were found in various places in Philadelphia.

"Lieut. James Pyke (head of the bomb and forgery squad) went to Philadelphia while the Republican convention was in session," Valentine said. "Some bombs were found there, and he opened two of them."

He spoke to 675 detectives—one-third of the detective force—assembled at police headquarters and planned to hold two other meetings with the rest of the force later today.

FEARS MORE BOMBINGS

Valentine warned the men more bombings might come and urged them to exercise utmost precaution in handling bomb cases. He said the department "is now perfecting a technique in the bomb squad which will prevent further tragedies of this kind."

"This is a challenge to your efficiency, your courage and your department, and to New York city, the Empire state, and to the United States of America," Valentine declared. "This is just the beginning.

"There have been a series of bombings in Europe. It is possible that we shall have more here, due to the representatives of belligerent nations that are here."

LOST 'N' FOUND—Picked up by police in Sullivan sq., Charlestown, this lost lad learned a few tricks from Officer Augustine Jolia (above) before being sent to the Chardon St. Home. Later, when his mother, Mrs. Lillian Griffin, sought police aid, she was quickly taken to him, reunion followed . . . and today the lad, Kenneth, 3, was back at his Perkins st., Charlestown, home, his adventure over.

KANE THREATENS OUSTER OF POLICE

Mayor William E. Kane, who has discovered many a way to skin cats in Woburn's court and financial battles, whipped out a brand new knife today with a threatened physical examination for policemen.

Told that a plan was afoot to seize city hall and dispossess him to satisfy a claim for money owed police and firemen, Mayor Kane took it all quite calmly.

"Well, well, well," the mayor murmured, "perhaps we'd better have a physical examination for the men of our police department in the event. I guess that quite a lot of them would be pronounced unfit and dropped from the force. Then, they wouldn't worry about grabbing off city hall any more."

The city hall plan was hit on in connection with an execution for 40 claims totaling $15,000.

If, at the end of five days, the execution, which was obtained on a Supreme Court ruling, is not met, then ejection proceedings would be instituted at city hall, according to the plan.

Mayor Kane

In a more serious vein, Mayor Kane indicated he was prepared to meet the finance emergency. He said he might get a loan order for the money needed, and that it would only add about 60 cents to next year's tax rate.

Regardless or whether or not the City Hall is auctioned, and Woburn is deprived of quarters for the administration of city departments, a sure-enough auction of city highway equipment is apparently assured for next Wednesday at 10 a. m., as a result of action by John J. Forbes, former city electrician.

Early yesterday morning Forbes, aided by an attorney, two deputy sheriffs, a heavy trailer truck and a tow car, seized a 12-ton road roller which cost $6900, and two ash trucks to satisfy his execution of $1698 ordered by the Supreme Court on back pay withheld by Mayor Kane.

"It was very appropriate that Forbes grabbed the ash trucks—he has been in the ash can for a long time," was the mayor's comment, when informed of the seizure.

Fire Sweeps R. I. Naval Station

NEWPORT, R. I., July 11—Fire swept through a section of the old drill hall on Codington Point at the Naval Training Station here today.

Newport firemen were summoned as a precautionary measure but the fire had been brought under control before their arrival. Officials at the naval station said damage was slight and the cause given was the overturning of a tar keg.

Tommies May Don War Corsets

.. LONDON, July 11 (AP)—Steel-corseted troops, like knights of the Middle Ages, may fight the battle of Britain in armor capable of stopping rifle and machine-gun bullets.

Walter Distillator, representing the United States Armor Corp., New York, said today the war office is considering his proposal to have Britain's Tommies wear khaki-covered corselets of steel and rubber.

One 14-pound corselet, he said, has proved capable of stopping bullets and shell and bomb fragments at 25 yards and claimed a 16½-pound corselet is proof against machine-guns and rifles.

DEATH TOLL HEAVY IN HEAT ACCIDENTS

Ten persons were dead in New England today and an equal number were on hospital injured lists following a series of drownings, motor accidents and prostrations yesterday, when perfect weather conditions lured thousands to beaches and the country.

Worst of the tragedies occurred in Brooks, Me., where three children of Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Vinal drowned in a swimming hole near their home. The victims were Guy H. Vinal, Jr., 11; Louis, 9 and Barbara, 8.

Dennis Collins, 10, of Raymond st., Allston, was drowned off Huck's Beach in the Charles river, Frank R. Kukowski, 20, of Syracuse, N. Y., lost his life in North Attleboro and an unidentified man of 50 died in Boston Harbor. His body, clad in trunks, was found floating near Governor's Island.

In Wakefield, N. H., Harland Patch, 16, of Rochester, N. H., was instantly killed when the auto in which he was riding rammed a passenger train engine at Burleyville station.

The Boston-bound train was slowing to a stop at the station as the automobile rammed the side of the locomotive. The victim's three brothers escaped with cuts and bruises.

Heart attacks took the lives of Ambrose Baron, 71, of Day st., Jamaica Plain, who collapsed while at work in a Harrison ave. shoe shop; Martin Giori, 56, of Plymouth, found dead on Plymouth beach, and Mahlon Hill of Holyoke, victim of prostration while playing golf.

Maine Cities Show Population Gain

PORTLAND, Me., July 11—Eighteen of Maine's 21 cities increased their population in the last 10 years, it was disclosed in the 1940 Federal census.

The largest gain—3135—was reported in Lewiston, now with a population of 38,043. Portland, the state's largest city, showed an increase from 70,810 to 73,464.

Steel and Plane Shares Higher

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Steels and aircrafts led a quiet rally in today's stock market.

Prices stifened at the opening and, near the second hour, gains generally ranged from fractions to $1 a share or more. Dealings picked up briefly, then slowed.

Favored were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, United Aircraft, Boeing, N. Y. Shipbuilding, Western Union, Loft, Great Northern, N. Y. Central, Montgomery Ward and General Electric. Motors, utilities and rubbers were narrow.

2 FACING DEPORTATION SEEK PARDON ACTION

To prevent their deportation to Canada and Italy, Gov. Saltonstall has requested the state advisory board of pardons to grant hearings on applications for pardons of Alfred J. Boudreau of Worcester and Giovanni Boccorossa of Milford.

Boudreau pleaded guilty in Worcester, May 17, 1926, to a charge of larceny and was placed on probation for a year. On May 9, 1927, the case was filed.

In a communication to the pardon board, counsel for Boudreau states that as the crime was committed when his client was 18 years old, and he secured only $2.90 in the larceny, clemency should be extended.

He further states that Boudreau has married an American girl, has twin daughters, has lived an exemplary life since the crime.

He added that it would disrupt Boudreau's life to deport him to Canada, as contemplated by federal officials. He will be given a hearing in the State House July 24.

Boccorossa was sentenced in Hampden Superior Court May 19, 1917, to State Prison for life on a second degree murder charge. He was pardoned on parole conditions Sept. 24, 1930.

According to the records in the case he found his wife Rosie in the company of another man, shot and killed her and wounded the man.

Berlandi Admits He Told Court Untruth

Admission that he had told an untruth in earlier testimony was made today in municipal court by Angelo Berlandi, 30-year-old assistant secretary to Mayor Tobin and one of four defendants on trial for alleged contempt before Chief Justice F. Delano Putnam.

The charges against Bedlandi, his brother Alfred, Police Lieut. Harold Walkins and Carmen Giordano grow out of an alleged attempt to have Giordano "take the rap" for Alfred Berlandi in a handbag theft.

On the witness stand today Angelo Berlandi admitted, under cross-examination by Asst. Dist.-Atty. Edward M. Sullivan, that he had failed to tell the truth when asked if he had ever been in court before.

When his counsel, Arthur Bickford, asked Berlandi in re-direct to explain "that incident you were involved in about 10 or 12 years ago," Chief Justice Putnam interrupted to ask:

"Do I care about that?"

PHONED PATROLMAN

Berlandi was already replying to his counsel, however, saying:

"I'd rather not answer."

Angelo testified that he knew Lieut. Walkins only by sight and said he never communicated with the officer by letter or telephone and never asked anyone to communicate with Walkins in behalf of Alfred Berlandi.

The witness, however, admitted calls to the home of Patrolman Joseph Lundy of North End station, because, Berlandi said, someone had told him "they" were trying to involve him in his brother's case.

He denied that Lieut. Walkins had told him that he (Walkins) was going to see Chief Justice Putnam about Alfred's case and said the first time talked with Walking was on Wednesday, March 20, when Giordano was in court.

TELLS OF TALK

Asked what the conversation was in the courthouse corridor, Angelo said:

"I told him my brother got a tough break. He said, 'That was his own fault. . If he had told me the truth in the lineup Monday, this thing would never have happened.'"

Asked whether he had seen Lieut. Walkins in the mayor's office, the secretary said he had seen him "occasionally."

Q—He was made lieutenant only during the Tobin administration? Istration? A—I don't know sir.

Atty. Bickford shot up and interjected:

"That's a nice question."

"I'm going to offer proof, so don't be touchy," retorted Sullivan.

"Do you visit Jimmy O'Keefe's —Jimmy O'Keefe's restaurant?" Berlandi next was asked by Prosecutor Sullivan.

"Yes," replied Berlandi.

Q—You have seen the lieutenant there? A—No, sir.

QUIZZED BY JUDGE

Asked if he was at the courthouse when his brother Alfred was on trial, Angelo said he was but he did not go into the courtroom. This brought an interruption by Chief Justice Putnam, who asked.

"You stayed in the corridor and didn't go into the courtroom?"

Angelo replied:

"I didn't know the case was being tried. I thought the case was continued."

Under Sullivan's questioning, Angelo asserted that he had never promised anyone connected with the Giordanos that he was going to "squash" or "bag" the case. He also denied any conversation with Thomas Giordano, a brother of Carmen, at the Crusaders Club, in which Angelo said he would fix the case.

ADMITS UNTRUTH

Q—Of course at some time you thought Lieut. Walkins for going to the front for your brother, didn't you? A—No, sir.

Q.—Yesterday you were asked by your counsel whether you were ever in court before, and your answer was no. Was that right? A.—Well . . .

Q.—No, please — answer the question. A.—Yes.

Q.—It isn't the truth, is it? A.—No.

8-STATE HUNT FOR BANDIT PAIR

A crime wave which has already taken the life of a girl autoist and imperiled several other persons in two states today was laid to two suspects by New Hampshire state troopers.

Burglary of a firearms store in North Walpole, N. H., where 41 revolvers and 28 rifles were taken was described as the largest gun seizure in New England in several years.

Authorities are ready for possible outbreak of an interstate gang of bank robbers fashioned after the onetime Millen-Faber gang, whose seizure of guns led to bank holdups, murders and eventually their own electrocutions.

A more sinister possibility—that the guns may have been stolen for mass action by a subversive movement or for storage against a future outbreak—is being carefully investigated.

An eight-state alarm has been issued by New Hampshire State Police naming the two men. They are sought for the gun break, for exchanging shots with a Massachusetts State Trooper in a running fight, for a fatal accident, and for larceny of several cars with attendant high sped and reckless driving —twice while being chased by police.

Saturday night a machine stolen at Old Orchard Beach, Me., carrying two men believed to be the pair sought and two girl companions, crashed while on the way to Canobie Lake, N. H., and one of the girls, Lucille Jodoin, former Laconia carnival queen, died as a result of injuries.

The men were traced to North Salem, where another car was stolen. That car was spotted in West Boylston by State Trooper Vincent Power and chased into Worcester, where its occupants escaped after their machine crashed a tree. Several shots were fired by both the trooper and the men during the chase.

Special Island Jury To Sift Sex Slayin

OAK BLUFFS, July 11—Authorities planned today to call special grand jury for a speedy test of the evidence thus r amassed in the murder of Mrs. Clara M. Smith of Dorches 70-year-old sex-murder victim.

Chief link in that chain of evidence, it was learned, is a letter, the contents of which is to be closely guarded until the special grand jury views it.

At the same time it was reported the prosecution will attempt to summons a New York woman, a Christian Science practitioner, as a witness at the hearing in the case of R. Hutnington Rice, elocution teacher who is charged with the murder.

Rice, it is charged, telephoned to her the day he was arrested and asked her to help him, declaring he was being framed.

Meanwhile the accused teacher awaited the arrival of Atty. Frank G. Volpe of Arlington, engaged by the Rice family to defend him.

Volpe, former assistant district attorney of Middlesex county, left Boston today for Woods Hole to connect with the first steamer to the island.

Atty. Volpe said he would interview Rice at great length at the island jail and later contact the local and state police and Dist. Atty. Crossley.

"I intend to make an exhaustive study of the entire situation," said Volpe. "I may have to remain on the island two days."

The Rev. Mr. Rice, Presbyterian clergyman, who retained Atty. Volpe for the family, said:

"Our family feel that a terrible mistake has been made. We are confident that our brother's innocence will be established."

ASSESSORS PLAN APPEAL

An appeal to the full bench of the Supreme Court was being prepared today by Peabody assessors following an adverse ruling by Supreme Court Justice Stanley E. Qua. He ruled illegal their plan for assessing property on the basis of the mayor's budget.

KIDNAPER OF R. I. GENERAL HUNTED

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 11—State troopers joined forces with Providence and Pawtucket detectives today in a search for the gunman who invaded the home of Brig. Gen. Herbert R. Dean of the Rhode Island National Guard and held the general as his prisoner during an auto ride.

The manhunt was pressed during the night and today all Providence detectives were ordered back on duty. Numerous persons were picked up for brief questioning as police sought for clues.

General Dean, on a visit to the city from his summer home in North Kingston, decided to go to his residence in Elmgrove ave., and discovered the bandit in a bed chamber.

The swarthy-complexioned intruder was wearing one of the general's suits and held the officer's service revolver, which he had found in the house.

Details of the holdup-kidnaping were not disclosed publicly by the general, who said he made a complete report to the police.

But Howard S. Almy, chairman of the bureau of police, said that after Dean had argued the robber out of tying him up or locking him in a closet, he was forced to drive the man to Pawtucket and allow him to escape, still wearing Dean's suit and carrying the revolver.

Dean also was reported to have lost his billfold.

After the adjutant general returned to Providence and reported the incident virtually the entire police force was assigned to track down the gunman.

As a clue, police had the robber's own suit which was left in Dean's room.

SUCCESS—Her face lifted for the third time, Edna Wallace Hopper, 75-year-old "eternal flapper," today was planning to return to the stage. Her physician said the operation, was a success . . . and declared, "Miss Hopper looks 20 years younger."

Parley Still Waits Roosevelt Decision

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP)—Democrats turned toward their convention city today talking about a third term for President Roosevelt and a platform declaration against sending Americans to fight in European wars.

Whether the President would take a third term nomination and lead the battle for the Democrats against the Republican standard bearer, Wendell L. Willkie, was the first question asked by incoming national committee members.

The platform maneuvers will start Friday, with Senator Wagner of New York arriving today with a preliminary draft.

But coincidental with the presidential declaration of yesterday that America would not use its men "to take part in European wars" the early arriving party officials began to speak of a platform which would nail that idea into the campaign machinery.

Much still needed to be done to set the stage for the big nominating drama. So far, headquarters had been set up for only Vice President Garner, Federal Security Administration McNutt and Senator Wheeler of Montana.

A subcommittee of the national committee still has to figure out how the abolition of the old two-thirds rule can be squared up by giving delegate bonuses to states that regularly go Democratic. The national committee has to work out a temporary roll of accredited delegates.

The most elaborate convention headquarters set up so far were those opened by E. B. Grmany of Dallas, Texas, in a Loop hotel for Vice President Garner.

An ornamented saddle held the center of the room. Decorative girls greeted callers in a Texas drawl. And Germany said Texas would "support and elect the Democratic candidates as always.

Like J. Bert Clements of Helena, Montana, the Wheeler manager, Germany said the Garner campaign had been started on the theory that Mr. Roosevelt would not break the third term tradition and take the nomination.

Amid the growing talk that Mr. Roosevelt would take the nomination, Postmaster General Farley—speaking in his secon dand third roles as chairman of the national committee and as a candidate in his own right—said that he had not changed his own mind. He previously had said his name would be put before the convention.

Friends of Vice President Garner have insisted that his name would be dropped into the nominating pot, but Clements said Wheeler's would not if President Roosevelt were proposed for nomination.

ELY FIRM AGAINST 3D TERM

Former Gov. Joseph B. Ely, who nominated Al Smith for the presidency in 1928, broke sharply with Massachusetts Democratic delegates today, declaring flatly he was opposed to a third term.

Already it has been assumed that the delegation would be nearly 100 per cent for Roosevelt if he decides to run.

"It seems to me," Ely said, "that at a time like this, when democracy is struggling to live, it would be a great mistake—if we still believe in it—to remove one of the last barriers against dictatorship."

Long an outspoken opponent of the New Deal, Ely was elected a delegate-at-large to next week's Democratic National Convention, pledged—as were 32½ of the Bay State's 34 votes—to support Postmaster-Gen. James A. Farley.

Speaking "just for myself," Ely said he would stick to Farley "until he releases me." Earlier this week Massachusetts State Democratic Chairman William H. Burke and Rep. McCormack, chairman of the Bay State delegation, personally urged President Roosevelt "to be a candidate or to consent to be drafted."

Ely expressed hope that the President would decline a third term, adding: "But beyond that, the party convention should resolve against a third term."

A survey indicated the Massachusetts delegates generally would back the position taken by Burke and McCormack.

Next: Woman Vice President

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP)—Why not a woman vice-president?

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, Illinois national committeewoman, asked the question today as delegates began arriving for the Democratic national convention.

Mrs. Conkey, who is Cook County (Chicago) commissioner and a political worker for 20 years, said:

"I would like to see Mrs. Mary Norton, representative from New Jersey, vice-president.

"Of course, there is Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt—but we should save her for the presidency later."

4 LEADER S TALK WITH WILLKIE

COLORADO SPRINGS, July 11 (INS)—Wendell Willkie sat around today soaking up a little more knowledge of the conditions which he faces as a candidate for President and would face if elected.

Carrying out hi atheory of "sitting down and talking with people," Willkie had in for dinner last night W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines; Wylie Blair, president of the Holly Sugar Co.; Boardman Robinson, liberal writer, and Alfred Cowles, an economist.

While Willkie himself attached no special significance to his chats with Patterson and Blair they were regarded as of political significance because the former is an open critic of the government's commercial air policy and the latter is a leading representative of Colorado's beet sugar industry which is always in fighting competition with the cane sugar people.

The Robnison and Cowles invitations were suggested by Gov. Ralph Carr. He later brought assurances that Willkie can count on Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, Wyoming and Oklahoma in the fall election and was optimistic about Texas.

Willkie himself said that he probably will campaign in the Democratic South. He considers no territory lost to him and not even the so-called "silod south" is conceded in his estimate of the situation.

The candidate had no special plans for today except to eat a chuck wagon dinner with Mrs. Willkie as guests of the Colorado Springs Cowhands' Ass'n. Tomorrow he goes to Denver to lunch with the state central committee.

Parkman Fires First Gun in Willkie Drive

The Willkie presidential campaign was on in earnest in Massachusetts today with Henry Parkman, Jr., former state senator, firing the opening gun at a meeting of the Plymouth County Republican Club in Whitman.

Parkman, until recently Boston's corporation counsel and now candidate for Republican nomination for U. S. senator, named Wendel L. Willkie as the man "to release the spirit and the idealism and the working will of the American people from the doldrums."

The speaker bemoaned "a lack of real leadership" at a time when the nation was banding together in a demand for national defense with a patriotic disregard for additional taxes.

Bullitt on His Way Home For Convention

MADRID, July 11 (INS)—William C. Bullitt, American Ambassador to France, crossed the Franco-Spanish frontier today en route to Lisbon where he will embark by clipper plane for the United States. He is returning to America to attend the Democratic National Convention.

FASCIST UNION BANNED

LONDON, July 11 (INS)—An official order went into effect today, dissolving the British Union of Fascists.

WAR ORPHANS GET HOME OFFERS FROM VETERANS

World War veterans know the death and destruction of great battles play no favorites. And that is why so many of them, or members of their families, have written to the Editor of the American offering to make a home for refugee children.

Front line veterans, mindful of the frightful scenes of 1914-1918 France, are demonstrating daily their willingness to either adopt or provide custody for saddened children of war.

The veterans know of what they write, and their letters have inspired hundreds to write offering to do their bit in the cause of humanitarianism.

Letters like those from which excerpts are taken today are still needed. If you can care for an unfortunate European youngster write, and write now, so that plans to bring them here can be speeded.

A VETERAN WRITES

BEVERLEY—"We would like to offer our home and our help to a refugee. We are American citizens of British birth. I served across in the last war, coming here after the Armistice.

"We have a good home and a son 16 years of age. If possible, we would like a girl about two years old of British parentage, for the duration of this war."

DORCHESTER—"My husband and I have been married 10 years. We are a very happy couple with two daughters, one eight and one three. We would like to help a little boy orphan of three, or about that age. We will give him a good home and be very happy to be able to do so. We prefer to extend our help to some youngster without parents."

NO CHILD OF OWN

BROOKLINE—"My husband and I would like to adopt a little war refugee. We have been married over 10 years and have no children of our own. We both love children would like to adopt a little girl as young as we could get. Either a French or English child will do."

HOPE VALLEY, R. I.—"I am very anxious and desirous of having a war orphan. We own a very large farm, a fine healthy place, with plenty of fresh milk and cream from our own cows and fresh eggs from our own hens.

"My husband is a World War veteran discharged in 1919 who now holds a position with a Providence business firm. We can make some English girl a happy home."

FINE HOME OFFERED

BROOKLINE—"May God grant you strength and success in bringing over these unfortunate children. Your work has a double meaning as it will not only save these youngsters, but will also bring happiness to many parents who have empty homes and empty hearts.

"We are a young couple and would like to adopt a little girl from one to four. She would have a fine home, fine education, and the love that is in our hearts."

CHELSEA—"I am sorry that the children in Europe are suffering the horrors of war. I would like to do something for one of them. My whole heart and sympathy are with them.

"I would like to adopt a baby boy about a year or two of age. I would do everything in my power to give this baby a good home and education."

HAPPY HOME OFFERED

MILTON—"We shall consider it a great privilege if we are selected as the recipients of a little boy or girl from England or one of the other countries. I note that the British government is contemplating the sending of more than 9000 evacuated Belgian, French and Dutch children to the United States and Canada.

"My husband and I would like a little French girl, one about three years of age. We are financially able to give her happiness and opportunities she would never have at home."

CAMBRIDGE—"We would like a girl between three and four years old, Polish or English. We will be willing to give her a good home and good care for the duration of the war."

Britain Set For Nazi Blitzkrieg

minister of supply, Sean Lemass, warned his countrymen the danger of invasion or isolation was nearer and graver and that it might possibly come "this week or next."

"Our greatest danger," he said, "is invasion. Invasion will be resisted and, apart from our own efforts, may produce a counter-invasion."

This would be from Britain

London accepts the situation as meaning Premier DeValera will not allow the landing of British troops in Ireland as a precautionary move against invasion by Germany. Many Irishmen would consider this invasion by Britain.

Raiding Nazi warplanes sowed bombs again today, scouring towns and countryside in the Midlands, the southeast and the southwest. The government reported "a few" deaths.

NAZI PLANE SHOT DOWN

Three German planes were believed to have been shot down in Southwest England.

In a southeastern town a German raider killed two persons, but British fighter planes chased the plane out to sea and were believed to have shot it down.

The British ministry of home security issued a communique saying:

"During the night bombs were dropped in a number of scattered points in the eastern and southeastern counties and in the Midlands. No casualties were reported except a small number in two east coast towns of which a few were fatal.

"Slight damage of no military importance was caused."

Enemy planes were reported over the southwest district also and in the southeastern town where two deaths were reported it was said a Nazi invader machine-gunned civilians and a fire engine crew in a street and bombed and machine gunned cattle in a marsh.

Bombs damaged business establishments in the town.

An air ministry communique said Royal Air Force fighters shot down a German bomber over the channel this morning.

The British said that German losses during three weeks of air raiding against the British Isles totaled at least 75 planes, plus about the same number damaged and possibly forced down before reaching home. The total of German raiders shot down since the war started was placed at 147, and this week's figure at 38.

Another Nazi plane dropped two bombs on a northeastern town badly damaging many houses and scoring several casualties.

The great scale of yesterday's German attack, which brought battles in which 150 planes took part, made the country especially alert, although some diplomatic observers thought Hitler was using these raids to prepare for a big peace offensive, rather than a new blitzkrieg.

"The latest story," said the Daily Express, "is that Hitler won't invade us just now. He may try going south to Africa before coming west to England."

"But we know this. Hitler must try to come here some day, because there is no other way in which he can win the war.

RUMANIA STANDS FIRM AGAINST NEW GRABS

BUCHAREST, July 11 (AP)—Rumania took a firmer stand today against further territorial concessions to her neighbors following the German-Italian-Hungarian conference in Munich.

Government spokesmen declared this nation, which recently ceded Bessarabia and Northern Bucovina to Russia, would not consider any Bulgarian demands for territorial readjustments. Bulgaria claims Southern Dobruja.

They also reiterated the declaration in official circles that Rumania would not cede one inch of Transylvania to Hungary, but would be willing to discuss a transfer of populations.

Diplomatic quarters considered this repetition significant in view of word from Munich that Adolf Hitler told Hungarian statesmen Germany would not tolerate a war over Transylvania

It was believed Rumania had advance information of Germany's attitude.

Balkan tension, meanwhile, has been heightened by news from Istanbul that the Turkish national assembly would meet tomorrow to consider demands which Soviet Russia is expected to make—perhaps for control of the Dardanelles

(In Istanbul, it was reported Bulgaria might order general mobilization. The reported presence of Russian warships off the Bulgarian port of Varna was regarded in Istanbul as a Soviet threat to bring the Bulgars into line with Russian plans.)

Rumania took another step toward reorientation of her foreign policy in announcing last night her withdrawal from the League of Nations. The announcement said League membership had placed Rumania in opposition to "great and friendly nations." (Presumably Germany and Italy were meant.)

Most of the pro-Nazi iron guardists who have been catapulted from concentration camps into King Carol's government retained their posts today despite one leader's resignation and another's disappearance from the political stage

609,000 Tons Ships Sunk, Berlin Claims

BERLIN, July 11 (AP)—The high command announced today that 609,000 tons of "enemy commercial shipping" was destroyed by German submarines during the six weeks ended July 8.

The daily communique reported 35 British planes and one balloon shot down during air battles of the past two days.

It was pointed out that Germany's U-boats were sinking British shipping at the rate of 100,000 tons a week.

The communique told of repeated successful raids against airports in southeastern England and munitions plants. Stores of munitions were reported set afire at Pembroke, Plymouth and Swansea.

The 51 months of conflict at sea in the World War cost the United Kingdom 7,830,765 tons of commercial shipping including fishing craft and submarines accounted for nearly 90 per cent of the destruction. The losses of Britain her allies and neutrals in that period totaled 12,850,814 tons.

The most destructive month was April, 1917, with 852,000 tons of British, Allied and neutral shipping went to the bottom.

By unofficial tabulation, so far in the present war Britain has acknowledged loss of nearly 1,000,000tons of shipping from all war causes.

Italy Troopship Burns and Sinks

ROME, July 11 (AP)—The burning and sinking of the Italian steamer Pagania off Durazzo, Albania, on June 28 with 920 soldiers and 30 seamen aboard was announced today. The communique said escorting ships went at once to the rescue, but did not say whether there was any loss of life.

The cause of the fire was not given. The Pagania, 2427 tons, was registered out of Bruno, Italy.

The communique said the ship left Bari, June 27, bound for Durazzo, Albania. The fire broke out the next morning, when the vessel was 7 miles from Durrazo.

London reported 200 Italian and Albanian officers and men lost their lives when the ship went down.

Robert W. Service Again Flees Nazis

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—Robert W. Service, Canadian poet famed for his narrations on life in the Yukon, fleeing for the second time from German invaders, has arrived in London with his wife and daughter. Service, who fled from Poland last fall, caught a boat at St. Malo shortly before German bombs demolished most French channel ports.

BAHAMAS WAIT MOVE BY DUKE

NASSAU, Bahamas, July 11 (AP)—This tiny British colony, recovered from the first surprise of the Duke of Windsor's appointment as governor-general, speculated today on the permanent effect on the Bahamas' political life and tourist industry.

"The announcement of this appointment sent a great surge of excitement over the community and the general reception of the news was a feeling of jubilation," said the Nassau Daily Tribune in an editorial.

"Today, however, the community is asking itself many questions. What are the diplomatic implications of this move? How will it affect the political and industrial life of the colony?

"Is the Government House good enough for him? Will the legislature and press lose any of their rights to criticize the chief executive of the colony during his tenure of office?"

As Bahaman governor, responsible only to the Colonial office, the former British king will not have to worry about local opinion.

The Bahamas Legislature, in existence for 212 years, is one of the few in the empire with power to dictate internal financing, subject to the governor's veto.

Girls in Bomb Debris Live Weeks on Sweets

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—A number of girls trapped in the cellar of a bombed chocolate factory when German planes attacked Rotterdam May 14 lived on chocolate, biscuits and lemonade until they were dug out weeks later, according to a British Broadcasting Corp. broadcast heard here today by NBC.

The BBC announcer reported wreckage left by the bombardment still was being cleared up seven weeks after the attack, and that the Nazi raiders took a toll of 30,000 lives.

The Dutch legation in Paris announced May 19, that the death toll was at least 100,000.

BERMUDA BASE URGED TO AID N. E. DEFENSE

7—Training in mine planting of former army mine planters.

8—Immediate study of camouflage, with idea of screening defenses from air attacks.

9—Acquisition and fortification of bases for fleet, and air bases in Nova Scotia and Bermuda.

10—Replacement of obsolescent guns and equipment.

NEED MORE COAST GUNS

"Our coast defenses were located and constructed before the airplane became a weapon in warfare," said the report. "They are especially prominent from the air to planes on missions of observation or reconnaissance, either visual or photographic.

"Because they were located and constructed to withstand fire from ships at sea, they are very vulnerable to attack from the air."

Reporting on deficiencies in coast defenses the committee said of the guns:

"Heavy gun batteries of limited range exist in considerable numbers. These are generally in good mechanical condition. Some would require a few days to be placed in firing condition. Some few are in need of new parts. Many of them are of short range, but even so the range is equal to the probable visibility generally existing in this region. A few long range modern batteries exist."

The guns are well supplied with ammunition, the sub-committee found. Latest types of guns, the report said, "are almost unprotected from a fire either from sea or air."

Total absence of efforts to camouflage defenses was found by the sub-committee.

"We believe," said the sub-committee, "that every effort should be made to conceal the gun emplacements, magazines, tracks and observation points. We believe in this connection dummy emplacements, only partially hidden, should be employed and that the position of the guns and other installations should be kept masked as long as possible."

Anti-aircraft defenses, the report said, consist of obsolescent guns and are poorly placed. Mine cable and control equipment is in poor condition or non-existent, the report said.

In most forts the only personnel is a care-taking force, the report said.

ATLANTIC UNPROTECTED

"Full protection calls for long range gun batteries to protect the harbors from penetrations by hostile surface ships, to secure the docking and servicing facilities for our own fleet and to deny these services to the enemy," said the report.

"These defenses must be sufficient to protect the entrance or debouchment of the fleet to and from its anchorage bases. This is the mission of the army, since at these times the fleet cannot protect itself. These gun batteries must be supplemented by bombing planes, motor torpedo boats and mine fields, both controlled and contact."

The sub-committee pointed out that the Hawaiian fleet base affords protection for the Pacific Coast, but no such protection exists on the Atlantic Coast.

Paraguay to Vote On New Democracy

ASUNCION, Paraguay, July 11 (AP)—A new constitution for Paraguay, presented as creating "an organic, reformist and nationalist democracy" and described officially as one of the most advanced in the Western hemisphere, will be submitted to a nationwide plebiscite Aug. 4.

It was promulgated last night by Gen. Jose Felix Estigarribia, president of Paraguay since Aug. 15, 1939, and virtual dictator since last Feb. 18.

It centralizes administration of the country's affairs, provides for state regulation of production and protection of workmen and government assignment of public lands to farmers.

It decrees that public interests must not be overshadowed by private interests and gives the government a notable increase of power in the social and economic spheres. In supplanting the Constitution of 1870, adopted after a disastrous five-year war with Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay that ended with a majority of the population dead, it creates a state council representing government, rural industries, finance, commerce, education, religion and the army and navy.

Gen. Estigarribia, who successfully reorganized the Paraguayan army during the Bolivian-Paraguayan war over the Gran Chaco, proclaimed his virtual dictatorship last February, after the cabinet and the Congress had resigned.

He said he took the step to save the country from "a horrible anarchy" threatened by internal disorder and lack of co-operation by the opposition Colorado party.

His decree, issued "with the aim of realizing the welfare of the people," announced he was assuming "all political powers of the republic."

CALL OUT FOR 40,000 IN CANADA

OTTAWA, July 11 (AP)—Canada opened her first full-fledged recruiting campaign today to get 40,000 new volunteers for the Canadian active service force, full-time soldiery for duty at home or overseas, and to train 37,000 militiamen during early August.

Defense Minister Col. J. L. Ralston and Air Minister Maj. C. G. Power figuratively hung a "men wanted" sign on the air waves

Col. Ralston announced the C. A. S. F. needed 40,000 volunteers as a preliminary to the first compulsory drafts under the national resources mobilization act, primarily because Canada shortly will send "a very large body" of troops overseas.

Major Power dealt with the militia, the non-permanent soldiery into which Canada hopes to send every fit man between 19 and 45 for part-time training. He said many thousands were wanted to start drilling two nights a week by July 15 and 37,000 to enter military camps for 15 to 20-day periods starting Aug. 1.

Reds Deny Turks Need Fear War

ISTANBUL, July 11 (AP)—Official Russian quarters here said today Russia has no intention of making any demands on Turkey. The Russians denounced as "pure nonsense" the widespread fear in Turkey that Moscow is about to ask concessions in the Dardanelles straits, or the Caucasus region of Turkey.

This fear apparently had had substantiation yesterday when the government called an emergency meeting of the National Assembly for tomorrow.

"Such a belief," said a Soviet spokesman, "is based on the erroneous impression that the U. S. S. R. has reverted to czarist policy. Nothing could be further from the truth.

"The U. S. S. R. was obliged to take certain measures for her security in Finland and Bessarabia, but there are no reasons for the U. S. S. R. to attempt to get control of the Dardanelles or of the Kars region (northeast Turkey), as our relations with Turkey are good and the straits are open to us.

"The Kars region was ceded to Turkey voluntarily after the revolution, and we do not want it back again."

NEW HELP FOR FOLKS OVER 40

A large number of people over 40 do not get enough iron to make red blood; and they also fail to get enough vital Vitamin B1.

As a result, these folks are in poor health. They have too little energy or appetite. They sleep restlessly and often develop certain types of nervousness and neuritis. Their shortage of Vitamin B1 indirectly may affect the glands, stomach, intestines and other organs.

A shortage of Iron and Vitamin B1 often causes the following—
Low vitality
Frequent spells of ill health
Tiredness
Dizziness
Pale cheeks
Restless sleep
Certain nerve disorders, neuritis
Lack of vigor
Short breath
Loss of appetite
ENRICH contains Iron & Vitamin B1. Try ENRICH.

Men and women over 40 can now obtain extra iron and extra Vitamin B1 by taking delicious "ENRICH," a new diet-aid which is helping thousands who formerly felt played out and tired from insufficient iron and Vitamin B1. Just to show you how much iron and Vitamin B1 is in ENRICH read this:—

You would have to eat 5½ pounds of beefsteak or 7 lbs. of spinach every day to get the same amount of iron daily as in ONE OUNCE OF ENRICH. And besides you would have to eat ¾ pound baker's yeast every day to get the same Vitamin B1 now obtained daily from ENRICH.

ENRICH tastes good and often produces an amazing improvement in a short time. Costs but a few cents a day; contains no alcohol or stimulant drugs. Does not blacken teeth. Gives satisfaction or money refunded.

ITALIANS CLAIM HOOD, ARK ROYAL DAMAGED

battleship; the sinking of a destroyer, and serious bomb damage to an unspecified number of other unidentified war vessels, including a battleship.

Italy acknowledges: Loss of the destroyer Zeffiro, 1073 tons; loss of a submarine and four warplanes, and a British hit ona warship which killed 29 crewmen and injured 69.

The Italian high command also reported another heavy air bombardment of the British Mediterranean naval base at Malta yesterday and said bombs caused fires and explosions in the arsenal and among ships in the harbor.

The Italian high command referred to the Hood as a battleship, although technically she is a battle cruiser, so listed in the naval manual, "Jane's Fighting Ships." Although she is the world's largest warship, her armor is lighter than that of battleships. That quality of a battleship has been sacrificed in the Hood to gain the speed of a cruiser. The Hood's rated sped is 31 knots. She has made 32.07.—Editor's note.

The communique said Italian bombers shot down three British planes which sought to chase them off. Two Italian planes were reported lost.

Two bombs were reported dropped on an "English battleship" in the Ionian sea fight Tuesday.

"The British version of the first large scale naval action of the war in the Mediterranean was that the fight turned into a pursuit of the Italians. The British asserted they had not suffered a single casualty and insisted the engagement proved "Italy's best is no match for our second best."

Italy said yesterday that, while the British fleet was turned back from its objective under Italian attack, the Italians had suffered the loss of the 1073-ton destroyer Zeffiro, a submarine and four warplanes and that a hit on a battleship killed 29 crewmen and wounded 69.—Editor's note.

General Francisco Pricolo, Italian air chief, disclosed that 300 Italian planes took part in Monday's and Tuesday's action against the British battle squadron south of Crete and in the Ionian sea. Only three of these planes, Pricolo's statement said, failed to return.

A large part of the aerial attack force, however, returned with damage and with wounded crewmen. The planes took off from bases in the Oegean islands, Libya, Apulia, Sicily, Albania and Sardinia.

Congress Seen Ready To Vote Total Defense

$4,600,000,000 expansion of the fleet to "two-ocean" proportions.

Knox's confirmation followed by 24 hours the approval of a fellow Republican, Henry L. Stimson, as Secretary of War. Stimson was sworn in yesterday.

Although President Roosevelt's new preparedness request would boost the present program above the $10,000,000,000 level, only scattering criticism appeared in Congressional comment.

A few Legislators expressed doubt that the additional money and authorizations could be utilized immediately in view of the existing arms backlog. Senator Frazier (R.), of North Dakota, said the recommendation sounded as if it were "for a foreign war, rather than national defense."

5-FOLD OBJECTIVE

Mr. Roosevelt, in his message, divided his request into $2,161,441,957 cash and $2,646,730,000 contract appropriations.

The objectives, he said were fivefold:

1—To carry forward construction of a fleet equal to any possible hostile combination.

2—To provide equipment for an army of 1,240,000 men.

3—To build up a reserve of tanks, artillery, ammunition for another 800,000 troops, if they should be needed.

4—To gear industrial resources not only to produce defense items now on schedule, but also to supply an army of 2,000,000, if necessary.

5—To produce 15,000 more planes for the army, and 4000 more for the navy.

TWO-OCEAN NAVY

The first point listed by Mr. Roosevelt contemplates an actual start of construction on the "two ocean" navy. The bill which the Senate passed yesterday authorized a seven-year program to add the necessary 200 combat ships to the fleet but carried no funds to get work under way.

The recommendation for 19,000 more planes looked to creation of a combined air force of 36,000 planes by the autumn of 1941—a big jump toward the President's 50,000-plane goal.

Mr. Roosevelt recounted his past efforts in behalf of preparedness and his statements on the international situation during the last seven years.

COINS NEW PHRASE

He coined a phrase -"The new enslavement"—to describe the threats which he saw to the nation today.

"That we are opposed to war is known not only to every American, but to every government in the world," he asserted, and then enunciated a two-fold policy.

"We will not use our arms in a war of aggression; we will not send out men to take part in European wars.

"But we will repel aggression against the United States or the western hemisphere."

He gave indirect endorsement to compulsory training legislation now pending in Congress, saying that in this way the manpower necessary for defense purposes can be guaranteed.

LODGE PRESENTS BILL

Encouraged by Mr. Roosevelt's remarks on this subject, Sen. Lodge (R.) of Massachusetts, an army reserve captain, immediately introduced a bill calling for selective service for enough men between 21 and 25 to give the army a standing force of 750,000, or treble its existing strength.

Hearings on the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory training bill brought forth divergent opinions. Grenville Clark, New York lawyer, advocated its passage, telling the House military committee that immediate training of 300,000 additional troops was "absolutely essential."

Foes of the bill attacked it before the Senate military committee, charging that it imperiled democracy and "approximates Hitlerism."

Mr. Roosevelt's statement that no doughboys would be sent to European battlefields was hailed by some congressional leaders as foreshadowing a strong "non-intervention" plank in the Democratic platform.

Sen. Walsh Boomed As Running Mate

Friends of Sen. David I. Walsh today were reported as urging his nomination as the running mate of President Roosevelt if the latter seeks a third term at the coming Democratic convention.

The Walsh boom was based on the assumption that he would aid Roosevelt in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Illinois and New Jersey.

G. A. R. Survivor Takes Command

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 11 (AP)—A. T. Anderson, who enlisted in the Union army at the age of 17, headed the rapidly thinning Grand Army of the Republic today as commander-in-chief, after one of the most unusual installation ceremonies in the organization's 74 years' existence.

With his right hand raised and his left resting upon the Bible, the 94-year-old veteran took the oath of office on the front porch of his friend, George Harshman, the only other member of the G. A. R. present.

Anderson, senior vice commander-in-chief, succeeded the late John E. Andrew, of Quincy, Ill., who died June 30.

Paramount's Helen E. Winter, winner over more than 100,000 competitors in Paramount's recently conducted "notebook" contest in which entrants were required to trace the history of the Union Pacific Railroad and outline the background of Cecil B. DeMille's "Union Pacific," has just arrived in Hollywood.

Within the next few days she will be meeting Producer-Director DeMille, Gary Cooper, Madeleine Carroll and others in the cast of DeMille's forthcoming production, "Northwest Mounted Police."

IMPRESSIVE LIST OF FILMS FOR STATE AND ORPHEUM

IN CONFERENCE—Joan Crawford and Rita Quigley listen attentively to Fredric March in "Susan and God," M-G-M film opening today at Loew's State and Orpheum.

Loew's Announces Gala Film Schedule

Scheduled to follow the currently showing "Susan and God" and "Turnabout" on Loew's State and Orpheum screens are an impressive array of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer productions.

The first of these is "New Moon," which reunites Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy in a feast of song for Sigmund Romberg fans.

After this you'll be seeing the fantastically successful young cinematic upstart, typical American boy, Mickey Rooney, in "Andy Hardy Meets a Debutante," ninth and latest in the series of popular Hardy family films featuring Lewis Stone, Ann Rutherford and Judy Garland.

"Pride and Prejudice," a story of love triumphing over these two vices, is listed in the pretentious parade of hits for M-G-M's summer schedule. Greer Garson, the lovely Kathie in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," and Laurence Olivier, the dashing charmer of "Wuthering Heights," are the co-stars.

Next in order will be "We Who Are Young," co-starring the screen's best-sweater-ad Lana Turner, and John Shelton, and "Sporting Blood," with Robert Young, Maureen O'Sullivan, Lewis Stone and William Gargan.

Metro, going ahead with its plans for entertaining America's 120,000,000 movie-goers despite the European shambles, recently announced an advertising appropriation of $2,750,000 will be spent promoting its 1940-1941 motion picture [illegible].

Howard Dietz, executive in charge of promotion, says:

"Our experience with 'Gone With the Wind' indicates there is no ceiling to the possibilities in attendance and revenue in our business, nor is there any apparent limit to the business possibilities of exceptional pictures."

Odets to Adapt 'Nijinsky'

Clifford Odets has been assigned by Oscar Serlin to make a dramatization of "Nijinsky," the dramatic and motion picture rights of which the producer recently acquired from the dancer's wife, Romola Nijinsky.

Odets, who is now working on a play as yet untitled, and will shortly depart for Hollywood, has had the intention, like Serlin, to make a play of Nijinsky's life and has been gathering material for such a project for the past several years.

The play—Odets' first adaptation—is scheduled for production early in the season of 1941-42, when, Serlin hopes, the European situation will permit the emigration of the dancer and his wife to this country. Nijinsky was recently barred by the American consulate authorities in Zurich from coming to New York, because it was believed Switzerland would become a theater of war and thereby prevent the dancer's return.

Ed Wynn's New Musical Opens at Shubert Sept. 2

Ed Wynn will open the Hub's fall legitimate season on Sept. 2 with "Boys and Girls Together," new musical revue due to go into rehearsal late this month. It will come to the Shubert Theater.

More than 60 performers, including principals, show-girls and a dancing-singing chorus, will take part in the footlight's fun-making which "The Perfect Fool" is now at work on. Besides writing the book, Wynn will star in, direct and produce the show.

Herbert Burns, general stage manager for the late Flo Ziegfeld and for Wynn, will serve in that capacity. The sets will be designed by William Oden Waller. Veronica Blythe is the costume designer and Albertina Rasch will arrange the dances. John McManus will be musical director.

Hollywood Notes

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 11—Talked with Howard Hughes yesterday and he said he wouldn't say yes and he wouldn't say no that "The Outlaw," an original by Ben Hecht, is Howard Hawks' first picture for him. But my friend, H. Hughes, did say "How in Heaven's name did you find out about it?"

Well, I had to tell him that no good reporter tells the source of her information. Anyway, you can put it down in your book that the first Hughes-Hawks movie will be "The Outlaw," a Western yarn with a novel idea.

Mary Pickford has been named chairman of the women's committee on Red Cross activities. She held her first meeting Tuesday afternoon at the Beverly Wilshire and a plan to hold a fiesta Aug. 3 at Santa Anita race track will be submitted to the men's committee. Mary entertained Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., the former Lady Ashley, Mrs. Howard Dietz, Constance Bennett and a few others at a luncheon preceding the meeting.

The Fairbankses were all there strong and pretty Mary Lee, Doug Jr.'s wife, leaned over and whispered to me, "Isn't Mary Pickford cute?" Of course, like all meetings, there was some chaos with too many of the girls talking at once.

FRAZIER HUNT, famous author and International News Service war correspondent, concluded a recent special article in the Hearst newspapers with the following paragraph:

"We must first and last do what is BEST FOR AMERICA, because in the long run that will be what is best for the world."

Would that not be a fine, American platform for the coming campaign and election?

It is commendably brief.

It is profoundly true.

Why should political conventions labor over empty phrases and meaningless platforms, which few people read and nobody believes, when everything that should be said can be so simply and truly said?

Candidates never give more than lip service anyway to the platforms their conventions write.

The platforms are written before the candidates are even known, usually by politicians who are little known to the people or are so well known to the people that they are not trusted.

The Republican party, for instance, recently entrusted the writing of a long-winded, evasive and straddling platform to a group of politicians upon whom the Republican convention promptly and wisely turned its back when it came to naming candidates.

IN A FEW DAYS, Democratic politicians in a Democratic Convention will write another and probably equally long-winded, evasive and straddling platform which will mean absolutely nothing, because Democratic candidates and administrations notoriously break and repudiate even good Democratic platforms, promises and pledges.

Would it not simplify, clarify and even purify the coming campaign to have the candidates pledge themselves first and last to what is best for America?

Then the people could calmly study the records of the candidates, and decide which of them most firmly believe what they say, and which can be most firmly relied upon to DO what they say.

What IS best for America, first and last?

Is not peace better for us than war?

Is not economical, provident and competent government better for us than spendthrift and wasteful government?

Would not an impartial, constructive and patriotic national Administration be better for us than another Administration capable of discriminatory, prejudicial and subversive policies directed against those who uphold our traditional Democratic American way of life?

Let us have candidates who will promise these things.

Let us ELECT the candidates who can be depended upon to KEEP their promises.

NEW ENGLAND'S Yankee farmers are still their own bosses and get along without pampering by their generous Uncle Sam.

Figures released by the U. S. Agricultural Adjustment Administration tell the story in succinct terms.

Yankee farmers got a mere $4,062,264, less than one half of one per cent, of the total of $878,973,824 in payments made in the eleven months through May.

It may be that they were neglected. Possibly they sit on the wrong side of the political fence.

But we don't look at it that way. It is much more preferable to think of them as independent, rugged individualists capable of going it alone, as their forefathers always did.

THE WISDOM of doing first things first is daily being demonstrated at Boston's famed L Street beach as youngsters are taught to swim instead of being told not to go near the water.

LEARN TO SWIM NOW

Special classes for children guarantee the guardians of the noted municipal bathing place against unnecessary drownings.

And mothers and fathers who might worriedly refuse childish pleas for a swim these glorious summer days can rest secure in the knowledge their youngsters are safe.

L Street is setting a fine example. May it be copied faithfully by other beach and lake resorts hereabouts.

JUST WITH SOME PEOPLE who were talking about prized family possessions. You know, such as the sword grandpa carried at Bull Run. Great-great-grandma's wedding dress, a collar once worn by Queen Victoria's dog, a sugar bowl that came over in the Mayflower, a baseball autographed by "Pop" Anson and so on. And was I embarrassed? I have no prized family possessions. My sister has some, but the only one I can remember is a letter written by Henry Longfellow ordering a case of sherry wine. Not only have I no prized family possessions, but I have mislaid all my own prized possessions. I can't even find the box score that shows I made four hits in four times at bat against Holy Cross. I figure I won 18 sweaters with school and college varsity letters on them and I haven't a sweater.

ROSALIE HOOKER ARNOLD, heiress and pre-war glamour girl, passes by, reminding us that she is about 40 now and has been married six times. She's from Hartford, Conn., where many of the insurance policies and Katharine Hepburn come from . . . Eleanor Holm, the modern Annette Kellerman. Eleanor was born in Brooklyn and her pappy was a fireman. Who remembers the song "My Old Man's a Fireman, What Do You Think of That" . . . Now they are suggesting photographs on auto drivers' licenses. So the wrong people can't use the right licenses. Not a bad idea. But as a member of the society for the prevention of photographs on passports I hope the license photographers will do better than the passport photographers . . . Fellow just called up to invite me to play chess. I don't play chess. I agree with the man who said "Life is too short for chess" . . . "You shouldn't say the American flag," writes a feminine client, "but the United States flag." There seems to be some logic in what this lady says. But I think usage has made saying "the American flag" all right . . . "How can I forget a man who has treated me in despicable fashion?" writes a San Francisco customer. Gosh, lady, how do I know? Couldn't you ask Elsie Robinson? Well, anyhow while you are waiting to hear from Elsie think of all this fellow's faults, buy yourself a watermelon pink hat and step out on the gayway on Treasure Island.

IT IS SAID 70 women out of 85 do the proposing of marriage. The young women because they are aggressive, the older women because they are desperate . . . Charles McNary, Republican candidate for vice-president, has a farm near Salem, Ore. I have been in Salem, Ore., but only long enough to buy ten gallons of gas and a large soft drink. Anyway, Mr. McNary on his farm developed the world's largest prune. Largest prunes I have ever seen are served in the dining cars of the Santa Fe railroad and in a hotel in Kansas City, Mo.

MY DAY

LAKESIDE, Ohio, July 11—Tuesday morning we drove back to Hyde Park from New York City. A group of some thirty ladies came to tea with me at 4 o'clock to discuss the possibilities of a documentary film to show the progress made by women in the last hundred years.

In a film of this kind, there are great possibilities to show what problems the women of the past had to meet and to point to the development of this country.

Women do so much to create the spirit of a nation that it will be particularly interesting to see the contribution made by our various racial strains to the formation of the idea on which America is built.

After dinner, we motored back to New York City to take the night train for Ohio.

I WAS very much interested in the "declaration against conscription" issued by a group of 240 educators in Tuesday's papers. It seems to me that these learned people who are excited about conscription and tie it up with military training alone, miss the point of the situation we face today.

The American Youth Congress and these educators seem to me to be discussing the world of a year ago, not the world as it is today.

A year ago there was plenty of time to talk over indefinitely whether it was necessary for people to serve their country by developing themselves physically, by acquiring certain mechanical skills, and even by learning how to be soldiers if necessary.

Above all, there was plenty of time to discuss what democracy meant to us and what we were willing to give in the way of service. Today that time is lacking. The quicker we learn to discipline ourselves; acquire mechanical skills; to organize ourselves for real use in our communities, the better for us.

Above all, we should accept the fact that democracy requires service from each and every one of us, not just from those who happen to want to volunteer. People say this can be done voluntarily and all they oppose is compulsory service.

Here again, I would say, let us be realistic. We know human nature well enough to know that even the best of us, unless we have to do a thing, will try to get out of it now and then, if it is not quite convenient.

We think the other fellow needs to give service—and we will, too, some other time, but we need not do it now, for we are always prepared to serve if the need arises in the future.

Educators know human nature and they realize that real democracy is only achieved when everyone has to do something.

The test of democracy is before us today. Can we face the situation realistically, and voluntarily vote for ourselves the disciplines which are needed to make it able to meet the force of totalitarian governments?

JAMES ROOSEVELT CHILDREN GUARDED

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, July 11—John Steinbeck, who just returned from Mexico, went to NBC's offices here last Friday and discussed propaganda ideas for Mexico. He reported that his short-wave radio could get no American broadcasts, and that the Mexican children were being taught German by means of Nazi radio instructors. He and Maurice J. Speiser, the attorney, therefore are arranging for a number of famous American singers and musicians to make recordings here for re-broadcast in Mexico . . . John Roosevelt's new baby isn't the only child in the family being guarded by Federal men. James Roosevelt's children, now with their mother, also are being guarded.

MISS LAWRENCE

A WARNER BROS. employe named Ben Cohn had a week-end appointment with a man employed in Steve Hannegan's office. Cohn sent a gag-wire of regret and decided to sign it "Wendell Willkie." The Western Union operator informed that it was against the rules to sign another name to a wire, and so Cohn agreed to forget about it . . . Ten minutes later he received a phone call from Western Union's traffic supervisor. "Mr. Cohn," he began, "regarding the wire to which you wanted Wendell Willkie's name signed as the sender—that's against the rules" . . . "I know," Cohn assured him, "so just skip it" . . . A few minutes later came another phone call—"Mr. Cohn," the sombre caller identified, "regarding that Willkie wire this is Mr. Carlson of the FBI!"

AMBASSADOR Laurence Steinhardt is securing an extension of his 60-day vacation from Moscow . . . Private groups are bringing pressure to bear upon Adolf A. Berle, Jr., to have the new S. S. Alan Scott, who writes the Ginger Rogers pictures, has written a musical for Broadway presentation. Its title is "Beauty In Distress," a satire upon the cosmetics industry. Jerome Kern will furnish the tunes . . . Jeffersonian Democrats, allied with the Liberty League, are preparing to attack any New Dealer who might get the nomination.

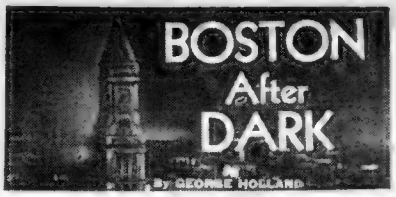
Miss Lawrence signed the autograph album: "Remember, dear Frances, that great elms from little acorns grew" . . . A theatrical producer visited there the next week-end and was invited to sign his autograph under Miss Lawrence's inscription. "Remember, dear Frances," he wrote, "that Gertrude Lawrence is not a botanist."



FANTASTIC AS THIS MAY SEEM the name of James A. Farley actually was introduced into the deliberations of a New England Republican delegation at Philadelphia as a possible candidate for the first place on the G. O. P. ticket . . . A few bitter-enders balky at the growing strength of the "Democrat" Willkie, suggested Farley as a candidate who would be easy—for the Republicans—to elect . . . Conceding the loss of the South to a Farley candidacy, the anti-Willkie boys felt sure that this loss would be compensated.

INCIDENTALLY, there was jubilation in Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever's office Tuesday afternoon when assurances regarded as "positive" came from Washington that the President would be a candidate . . . Political insiders, incidentally, are laughing at the notion of Senator David I. Walsh winning the second place on a ticket with Roosevelt as the chief candidate . . . The mutual animosity is considered too severe for reconciliations, even in the interest of the national campaign.

Come October and the Democratic campaign strategy will be that of "pointing with pride" to a whole series of defense orders completed . . . This will be the "bail out" of the President's famous speech in which the phrase "on order" recurred so frequently.

THE USE TO WHICH MR. JACOBS in arranging his music has put the vocal abilities of his boys makes the band a standout . . . Roy Barlow has a grand voice, Roy has competent assistance . . . The unit's "vocal quintet" is a harmonious blend of five good

RATOFF TO DIRECT 'BALLERINA'

By Louella O. Parsons

Gregory Ratoff

HOLLYWOOD, July 11—The versatile 'Russian,' Gregory Ratoff, was more excited than usual when I met him at the races at Hollywood Park. He had just signed a contract with Paramount to produce and direct "Ballerina," by Lady Lenore Smith, which he owns. He waxed into a long, enthusiastic discourse on the story and Loretta Young, who will star as the ballet dancer. "It is a feminine 'Goodbye, Mr. Chips,'" said Gregory, "and Loretta Young is a natural ballet dancer. I admit I was puzzled by that, but as a child she had taken dancing lessons and she is going to work hard on her dancing until Nov. 12, when the picture goes into production."

LILLIAN KENTON

TWO-MINUTE STORY

"WELL, Mr. Gagnon, how many houses do you plan to build?"

"Three, my dear Mr. Howard."

"Are you sure of a reasonable profit?"

"Why, with my money invested in sound real estate, I can't help but make money!"

"Cigar?"

"Yes, thank you."

"Now, about this transaction. You own so much property! Don't you think it would be wiser if you built those houses on—shall we say—more valuable land?"

"Not thinking of building in that vicinity, are you Howard?"

"Oh, no! Naturally, being your banker, I am interested in seeing that you don't lose your money.

BOTH MEN LAUGHED. The office was now cloudy with smoke, as they puffed contentedly on their expensive cigars.

"You know," said Gagnon, "I can't understand why you don't get in on this realty 'boom.' Why, Joe, there's a fortune to be made."

"Don't worry about me. I've got a little money of my own, you know, and I haven't been asleep!"

"But houses! Get an interest in a public utility. Make your money work hard for you! Of course . . ."

"I've got a few empty lots already!" broke in Howard.

"LOTS! Why in this game it's the income that counts! You can't expect empty lots to make a fortune for you."

It was a few hours later when Miss Hogan, the banker's secretary, answered her employer's call.

"I'm leaving for my club," Howard spoke morosely, "and should anyone call, tell them I'm in conference. Come on Gerry, let's get some fresh air. I've got a headache from that cigar smoke."

When the two men had left, Miss Hogan, surveying his littered desk disdainfully, sniffed audibly as she muttered to herself: "These millionaires! They haven't enough money but what they've got to sit for three hours playing monopoly!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

REMEMBER that old saying, "lower than a snake's belly?" That's how you feel many a time these days, isn't it? All these tremendous events avalanching around you, changing the face and spirit of the world, while you stay stuck in the same old rut, doing the same old chores which you did ten or twenty years ago.

I know that feeling, too. Sitting here at the same old typewriter, juggling the same old words. Felt it also in the long years when I stood above a kitchen stove.

IT comes to us all, inevitably—that feeling we don't count. Comes as surely when you're rich and famous as when you're poor and obscure . . . even to that One who hung upon a cross vindicating His faith, paying for the sins of the world, that feeling came—and broke forth in that immortal wail which bursts in its time from every heart:

"My God! My God! Why hast Thou forsaken Me?"

FORSAKEN . . . forgotten . . . so insignificant we cannot rate in the dramatic scheme of things . . . that's how we all feel, sooner or later, whether we sit on a throne or a broken-backed kitchen chair. But it isn't true!

You're not forgotten or forsaken! You're not insignificant!

YOU'RE A VITAL PART OF CIVILIZATION. YOU AND YOUR JOB ARE CIVILIZATION . . . FOR WITHOUT THEM CIVILIZATION WOULD TOTTER AND DIE.

"But my job doesn't amount to anything," you say. "Nothing smart or exciting, nothing colorful or unusual ever happens in my life. I just plug along, cooking three meals a day, seeing the kids get off to school on time, darning socks . . . or I go back and forth to the office, keeping the books, running errands, living like a rusty old machine instead of a human being."

YES, I KNOW—there doesn't seem to be much fireworks in a program like that. But, actually, that program is the most important thing in this mad, perverted world. That program is keeping sanity and decency from being wiped out forever. It is more than "a stupid job." It's the vision which is holding men steady through a nightmare—the symbol of all that is sane and sweet and enduring.

Try Prune Ice Cream

By MARTHA LEE

OVER 300,000,000 gallons of ice cream is a mighty lot of ice cream, but that's how much we ate last year in the United States—and that doesn't take into account all the quarts made in private refrigerators and "crankers."

Other estimates indicate that thousands of gallons of sauce are poured over many of those gallons; that hundreds of dozens of cookies are placed alongside the ice cream, and that thousands of jars of fruit and preserves and accessories are served with it.

Unless you just naturally don't like ice cream, you'll be serving a lot of it this summer. You'll be happy to know about good "augmenters" like these given here.

SPICY PRUNE ICE CREAM

2 cups cooked prunes
3 cups milk
¾ cup granulated sugar
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. cloves
3 eggs
1 cup heavy cream
2 tsp. vanilla extract
Chocolate syrup (optional)

Pit prunes and cut into small pieces. Combine milk, sugar, salt and spice, and scald. Pour slowly over beaten eggs. Add cream. Cool. Add prunes and flavoring. Pour into tray of automatic refrigerator or an ice cream freezer (2-quart) and freeze. Top each serving with chocolate syrup if desired. Makes 2 quarts

SOUTH AMERICAN SAUCE

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 cup water
2 cups sugar
⅛ tsp. salt
2 tsp. vanilla, or
1 tsp. essence of mint
2 tbsp. butter
½ cup sliced Brazil nuts

Cut chocolate into 5 or 6 pieces. Add water and stir over direct heat until smooth and thick. Add sugar and salt and stir until dissolved. Boil 3 minutes, add vanilla or mint and butter, add Brazil nuts and serve over ice cream.

CUP CAKES

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
⅓ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
½ cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla extract

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, and salt. Cream shortening, add sugar slowly, and cream until blended. Add unbeaten egg and beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, stirring well after each addition. Add vanilla extract. Bake in two sets of greased muffin pans, in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) about 25 minutes. Cool and frost as desired. Makes about 15 medium-sized cup cakes.

Reverse the procedure; put the ice cream in something, instead of something on the ice cream.

ICED COFFEE MILK

2 cups freshly-made double strength coffee
4 tbsp. chocolate syrup
4 tsp. sugar
2 cups milk
1 pint chocolate, vanilla, or butterscotch ice cream

Combine all ingredients except ice cream; chill. Pour into tall glasses. Top with generous spoonful of ice cream, stir and serve. Makes 4 servings.

Good Manners

Shower Gift Requires Card

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—When a shower gift is given, should a card be enclosed with the gift, as a card is enclosed with the wedding gift? Should I sign my name to the card?

2—Since I am just a friend of the bride's family, is it necessary for me to wear an evening gown to a church wedding at eight-thirty?

3—A group of the groom's friends are giving him a stag dinner and shower. What kind of gifts should be given the groom? N. E.

1—Yes, enclose a card, signed with your name, with the shower gift. This must be done, so that your gift will be identified.

2. The fact that you are "just a friend of the bride's family" doesn't make any difference in what you wear to the wedding. The bride and her family will expect their friends to be appropriately dressed for this occasion. If the evening wedding is to be a formal one (with the bride wearing a wedding dress and bridal veil), the women guests wear formal evening dress.

3. Usually, when this kind of stag dinner is a gift-giving occasion, the men who are hosts to the bridegroom-elect combine resources and give him one gift. Very often it is a silver cigarette box or humidor for cigarettes and cigars, engraved with the facsimile of the signature of each guest. Or it might be a cigarette case, or wallet, or a pair of cuff links, or an evening set or wrist watch or watch chain.

GIFT TO GRADUATE

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN,

Is it correct to send a gift to a young lady who is being graduated, even though an announcement has not been received? C. O.

Yes, it is correct to send a gift to a graduate. In other words, it depends on your wish, not on the fact that a graduation invitation was not received.

Customarily, only invitations are sent for the graduation exercises and the number of these invitations are limited.

'Million Bubble' Cream Bath With Cloud-Soft Sponge

By ARLINE GOULD

WHEN you're so tired out that you've no energy for your favorite brand of fun . . . when the heat has you dizzy and fagged . . . take to your bath . . . and try a new bathing luxury . . . something entirely new . . . a body shampoo with a "million bubble" cream bath and a special cloud-soft sponge.

It's just arrived . . . and the introductory offer includes the big tube of bubble bath and the feathery sponge for a dollar . . . with innumerable refreshing dunkings as your reward.

It's different because . . . the bubbles are a sudsy, fragrant foam, in several fragrances, and they're not soap, but super-cleansing foam . . . it "rain softens" the hardest water . . . it cools, invigorates and soothes as it cleanses . . . it leaves your body satin smooth, without sticky soap curd, and daintily fragrant . . . and the tub is left gleaming white and ringless!

There are two apertures in the sponge . . . you just squish the bubble-making cream into the moistened sponge . . . then squeeze it and the bubbles will rise and foam. Use it either in tub or shower . . . particularly good for the latter, because once you fill the sponge, there's no scrambling around for an elusive cake of soap . . . just squeeze and scrub.

If you like to shampoo your hair under the shower, you'll find this aid gives you a wonderful cleansing, leaving your hair feather soft and shining.

We like the gardenia fragrance, you might prefer the eau de cologne, pine, carnation, jasmine or lilac.

If you'd like to learn all about this new method of luxury bathing, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Love And Marriage

She's Taller

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My girl friend is five years younger than I am, and two inches taller, which is causing amused comment among my friends. I don't care in the least, but I would like to get some sensible person's view on the subject. We are planning to marry in a year, and truly love each other. I don't believe anything else matters, do you?

FRED.

If you'll forgive me for saying so, my dear young man, I think you're looking for trouble if you permit comments of uninterested persons to disturb an ideal love affair.

Your girl friend is five years younger, which strikes me as a very happy medium. And she's two inches taller. What's the difference? In many happy marriages the wife is a head taller—and it's nobody's business. No problem here at all.

DON'T MARRY A MAN TO REFORM HIM

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Recently I met a young man of 25, and I am 33. I've been divorced and have two little boys. Of course, he knows all about my divorce. He has been very attentive, takes me out, and we are very much in love with each other.

However, he has one bad habit—he drinks too much. He has so many friends who treat him, and he just can't say "no." I think I could make something out of him by putting him on the right track. Do you think I'd be safe in marrying him?

G. W.

Other women have had that dream about reforming a man who just can't say "no." But the dream, in nine cases out of ten, has developed into a nightmare. This kind of man never reforms, because he's too weak at bottom. Also, ten years difference is a good deal of a risk, when the man is only 25 and the woman older. Why not take up this reform on a friendly basis?

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

PHYLLIS MOTLEY of Milton beat the heat wave by a day or two . . . having departed on a two-week trip to the mid-west just before the weather man decided we should have a bit of summer . . .

Phyllis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Motley of Milton, will be married on Aug. 23 to William Lawrence, 2d, son of Rt. Rev. and Mrs. W. Appleton Lawrence of Springfield, and grandson of Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, Bishop Emeritus of Massachusetts . . .

Before settling down to last minute preparations for the wedding she has gone to Rochester, N. Y., to give her intimate friend, Mrs. John Castle, Jr. (Dorothy MacAusland), an opportunity to reveal her skill as a young hostess (the Castles were married here a month ago) . . . From there she is going to Cleveland to visit another close friend of her debutante days, Mrs. William Jason Mixter, Jr., (Lewis Watson) . . .

A camping trip to Lake Hubbard, Michigan, with Margaret Haas of Detroit, one of her Sarah Lawrence classmates, is also on the itinerary of her pleasant mid-western jaunt . . . and will provide her with a becoming tan and plenty of rest for the busy days of partying and planning before the wedding . . .

Both Mrs. Castle and Mrs. Mixter are coming on to be bridesmaids at the wedding in Emmanuel Church . . . Phyllis' sister, Anne Motley, will be maid of honor, and completing the bridal entourage will be Frances Lowell, Ann Johnson, Susan Lawrence, sister of the future bridegroom, and three Sarah Lawrence classmates—Martha Higgins of Cleveland, Margaret Strater of Rye, N. Y., and Barbara McGraw of New York City . . .

Phyllis, a debutante of the 1935-36 season, is a member of Junior League and Vincent Club . . . She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Henry H. Fay and Mrs. Thomas Motley, both of Boston . . .

Instead of following in the footsteps of his distinguished clergyman father and grandfather, William, 2d, has entered the law profession . . . He graduated from Harvard in 1937 and from Yale Law School last month . . . On his mother's side he is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kane Cobb of Chestnut Hill . . .

Charles S. Jenneys Plan Trip West

TURN ABOUT is fair play so when Julia Bolton of Cincinnati was here last month visiting Elizabeth Jenney in Brookline, she invited her hostess out to Cincinnati to spend some time with her . . . They are leaving Aug. 1 . . .

After he disembarks from the destroyer Leary at Portland, he and Roger Lee, Jr., are going to Honolulu for the month of August . . . Bob will be able to conduct Roger on a sightseeing tour of the Hawaiian islands, for he went out there last summer with another Harvardian . . . Roger was unable to take that trip so Bob is going to show him the interesting highlights this time . . .

N. E. Ambulance Drivers Safe

Four American ambulance drivers, three of them from New England, were reported safe in Brussels, Belgium, today, after being missing for weeks and feared killed or wounded.

The German army high command, at Berlin, notified the U. S. embassy that these men and other American ambulance drivers taken prisoner will be released as soon as arrangements can be made to send them home.

The four found safe at Brussels are George F. J. King of Providence, R. I.; John Clement of Wayland; Gregory H. Waite of Shelburne, Vt., and Donald Q. Coster of New York and Montreal.

American Field Service headquarters in New York announced King, Clement, Waite and Coster were among 15 ambulance men awarded the French Croix de Guerre for acts of heroism and devotion under dangerous and difficult conditions.

Romance-In-Casserole

By Marion Clyde McCarroll

"HE THINKS I can cook!"

Linda Holt's tone was a masterpiece of comic despair.

Elise Lawrence, across the tea room table, helped herself to a muffin and proceeded to butter it calmly.

"Well," she said "why don't you just tell him you can't?" Elise was a practica doll

"But he likes girls to be domestic!" Linda wailed, "and I—I like him!"

Elise gave her woebegone companion a swift glance of amusement. "I don't suppose," she remarked, pouring cream generously into her coffee, "that you have the faintest notion how he ever got the odd idea that you could cook? I mean you couldn't possibly have given him any such impression yourself any time—quite unconsciously, of course?"

Linda giggled, but her voice was the voice of injured innocence. "Can I help it," she inquired plaintively, "if a man jumps to the conclusion that just because a girl is secretary to the editor of a magazine called Women at Home and has a one-room apartment, she's the type who adores putting on a ducky little apron the minute she gets home and stirring up a tasty bite of supper? If he never happened to hear of people living in apartments and eating in the nearest restaurant, would that be my fault?"

"I wouldn't know." Elise briskly attacked her fruit salad. "You'd be the only one. I should say, who could answer that one. Hurry up with your lunch. It's late."

"Lunch!" Linda shuddered. "What a woman. It isn't enough that I have to sit here watching you eat like a horse, when you must know the very thought of food, under the circumstances, would be enough to choke a person! Here's the nicest man I know fishing for an invitation to come to my place tomorrow night and have me cook a cozy little dinner just for the two of us, and you know very well the only kitchen tricks I've got are done with a can opener. When I think of you—a home economics expert, tossing cakes and pies and things together every day for no better purpose than just to take pictures for advertisements—and me, with practically my whole life depending on making something to be actually eaten—" she broke off and groaned

CAN OPENER OUT

Elise gazed thoughtfully at her disconsolate friend. "Listen," she said, "if you can stop raving long enough. If the can opener trick is out, why not do it with mirrors?"

Linda sank back in her chair and glared. "Goofy!" she moaned. "At the worst crisis of my life by best friend goes goofy on me!"

"Shut up, you idiot!" Elise's eyes were gleaming in triumph. "What you just said about advertisements gives me an idea. You tell your boy friend you'd love to have him come to dinner tomorrow. Then, on your way home, come by my office. I'm going to make a perfectly elegant dish of Swedish veal cutlets tomorrow afternoon, just for a picture, and when we're through, I'll put the whole business in a container, you take it home and heat it up, and with some nice fresh peas, there's a dinner that ought to put any man right where you want him. You can fix a salad, can't you, and some fruit for dessert? Well, there you are."

"Elise," breathed Linda, "you've saved me from ruin. I'll never forget it."

A quarter of seven the next evening found Linda, alluringly feminine in the frilliest of aprons over a gayly printed silk frock, putting the finishing touches on her table-for-two, laid in her one big room. At the sound of the bell, she set down the last plate and went to open the door.

Behind an armful of red roses, Kenneth Lane's nose was cocked at an inquiring angle.

"All along the hall," he told her as he stepped inside, "there's been the most marvelous smell. It's not by any chance in this apartment, is it?" His eyes danced at her, and Linda's danced back as she answered demurely: "It might be."

"Couldn't be our dinner, could it?"

"Are you so skeptical," teased Linda lightly, taking his coat and hat, "about the possibilities of a good-smelling dinner in my apartment?"

"No," said Ken, "not really skeptical. It just seems too good to be true. It's all just the way I imagined it—the way you live, I mean. In a homey place like this, with pictures and books and—" he waved a hand vaguely—"things. And good smells coming out of the kitchen. There's nothing that makes a place seem like a real home so much as good smells coming out of the kitchen."

SNIFFS RAPTUROUSLY

Half an hour later, across the top of his red roses, in a silver bowl now in the center of the table, Ken sniffed rapturously as his smiling hostess lifted the cover from the casserole, releasing curls of spicy steam. "That's it," he cried. "The very same wonderful smell! What do you call it, anyway?"

"In English," said Linda, "I suppose you'd call it veal cutlet with a fancy sauce, but in Swedish it's something I can't pronounce."

"In any language," said Ken, taking the plate Linda handed him, "it's like something you'd meet in a dream. And then you'd wake up without ever getting a bite and it would be a nightmare." He raised his fork to his mouth and sighed luxuriously as the first bite went down. "It is a dream!" he declared; "there never was any food like this in real life."

When they had finished, they carried their coffee cups to the big davenport in front of the fireplace and sat a long time in comfortable companionship. It didn't seem possible to Linda that this was the first time they had had dinner together this way. It felt so at home for Ken to be here like this. And later, when he insisted on helping her clear up and wash the dishes, it seemed as natural as though they had done this homely little chore together many times before.

Standing in the doorway, saying good night, Kenneth's face suddenly lit up. "I've just had an inspiration!" he announced. "I'm going to throw a buffet supper at my place a week from Sunday, and the piece de resistance is going to be Swedish veal cutlets, prepared in a casserole right on the spot by the best darn cook in town"—and he swept Linda a deep laughing bow. "You'll be the hostess, and I won't take no for an answer."

When he had gone, having brushed aside all Linda's desperate expostulations, she rushed to the telephone.

"Elise!" she almost shrieked when a sleepy voice answered. "I don't care if I did wake up! Look what you've done to me—you and your Swedish veal cutlets! It was all your idea! You got me into this, and you've got to get me out!"

"When Elise, having finally got the story out of her frenzied friend, had stopped laughing at her end of the telephone, she spoke soothingly. "There's nothing to get so excited about," she said. "Meet me for lunch tomorrow and I'll give you the recipe and tell you just what to do. Then you can practice at home. After all, it's twelve days till Ken's party, and if you can't learn how to make that dish to perfection by then, you're not smart enough to deserve a good man!"

PRACTICE COOKING

For the next ten days, Linda declined all dinner engagements, and instead, stopped at the meat market every night on the way home for half a pound of veal. Then, in her tiny kitchenette, she slaved over the recipe Elise had given her. One night the meat would be nicely prepared but the tricky sauce would curdle. The next, the sauce would be better but the meat would be under-done or cooked to tasteлessness. It seemed hopeless to get the two things right. And each night, to determine how near she was getting to the standard of Elise's cutlet, brought home in the container for that fateful dinner, she ate her concoction for supper, sampling each bite with careful, critical tongue.

By the Friday before Ken's party, Linda had achieved a dish that rivalled Elsie's own, but she loathed the taste, smell and sight of Swedish veal cutlets.

On Sunday, clad again in the frilly feminine apron, she stood at the little electric stove in the kitchenette of Ken's bachelor apartment, putting the final touches on the sauce for the main dish of the feast. Hovering over her stood Ken, watching her practiced moves with lively interest, while in the big room beyond the swinging door the guests laughed and chattered while they waited for the surprise their host had mentioned in his invitation.

At last Linda took the casserole of cutlets, done to a mouth-watering turn, from he oven. Over them she poured the thick, rich sauce, whose spicy fragrance filled the little cubbyhole of a room. Then, cheeks brilliant with heat and triumph and a fervent desire to be done with veal cutlets forever, she handed the casserole to Ken.

"There!" she said, with a long sigh of relief. "Take it in."

Instead of taking it in, Ken set it carefully down on the table again, and cupping Linda's face in his two hands, kissed her softly first on one flushed cheek, then on the other. After that, his arms went [illegible] he paused a kiss [illegible]

"Darling," he said "you're wonderful. I've thought it for a long time but I [illegible] it till just now. Will you marry me? Just so," he added while his eyes laughed at her, "I can have Swedish veal cutlets for my dinner whenever I like!"

NO MORE CUTLETS

Linda pulled away, her own eyes snapping. "Listen," she began, and her voice shook [illegible] with wrath, with fearful apprehension, with a whole host of conflicting emotions. "I'll marry you, yes. But cook veal cutlets for you ever again?—no. A thousand times no! I never want to see or hear of Swedish veal cutlets again. And just in case you're interested, I never did hear of them until the night you ate them in my apartment. I didn't make that dish that night. I never made it in my life until—"

Ken's hand [illegible] over her mouth, stopped the rush of words, while [illegible] and [illegible] her defiant chin till she looked straight at him.

"Never mind, darling, darling," he said. "I don't care if you are one of Those Women. I want to feed somebody, [illegible] have the cutlets sent home from delicatessen. Or if you [illegible] I'll just help you with the [illegible] dishes."

Linda [illegible] and [illegible] her mouth [illegible] into [illegible] speech. "You [illegible] this—" her voice failed and she glared helplessly [illegible] found it again and [illegible] time? You planned this [illegible] purpose to catch me! You [illegible] me slave and [illegible] and [illegible] myself eating [illegible] learning how to [illegible]"

Whatever else [illegible] have been was lost in an [illegible] smother [illegible] Ken crushed her against [illegible]

"Don't be so mad, honey!" The tone was [illegible] contrite, but the eyes above her head danced with mirth, like a mischievous boy's. "I just couldn't resist it. I had to see what would do. And didn't I say I found out you were wonderful?"

Linda wrenched herself free and pointed at the casserole, her lips twitching.

"You take that—that thing in there," she commanded, "before I heave it out of the window! And then—then you come right back here."

THE END.

Don't miss "The Dazzling Gems" Claude McGuirk's thrilling story on this page tomorrow.

Cheeks brilliant with heat and triumph and a fervent desire to be done with veal forever, she handed the casserole to Ken.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Wonderland's Fountain Of Riches Grows Greater

AS THE WONDERLAND DOG TRACK MOVES into its sixth annual semester with an average of $178,000 being flushed through the pari-mutuel sluices nightly, it is increasingly clear that the common people of Massachusetts have a mulish strain when it comes to spending their own funds.

AUSTEN LAKE

It is six years now since Boston's little band of moralizers predicted sin and corruption if the bodkin bellied hounds were permitted to run within these hallowed purlieus. They said that between the dogs and the horses the people's earnings would be soaked up and leave a community of paupers living on the state. They said the city would be overrun with frowsy characters.

Yet tonight and every weekday night until November the people are feeding their fun money furiously and faster into the mutuel maws. Where does it come from? Nobody, including the dog proprietors and politicians, knows! This, in round numerals, is what the Wonderland fountain of riches has handled and skimmed since its inception in 1935:

Year	No. of race nites	avg.handle	total handle	State, track's cut
1935	82	$125,000	$10,250,000	$1,537,000
1936	80	$150,000	$12,000,000	$1,800,000
1937	80	$160,000	$12,800,000	$1,920,000
1938	90	$165,000	$14,850,000	$2,227,500
1939	92	$170,000	$15,640,000	$2,346,000
Total	424		$65,540,000	$9,830,500

Is that all? No, that is not all. Add to this 1½% "breakage" on the dollar, shared equally between track and state, or another $982,000. Add about $2300 gate money taken in nightly, or another $1,075,000. Add minor amounts for the food and program concessions. And then add this year's profits, or about $2,500,000 more. What does that make? Why, it sums up roughly to $14,387,000 plus, of which this state has skimmed perhaps a third and the track has pocketed the rest. A pretty luscious bit o' business in these times of frozen finance.

The People Love It!

PUT THE PEOPLE LOVE IT. They must love it to flood so much money into the windows and keep on coming with more and more funds fished out of the financial mattresses and teapots. They must love it to leave behind each evening some $28,000 in the hands of state and promoters, of which, as you may imagine, a goodly portion is eaten by operation and political moochery—though my estimate of the latter is naturally hazy, because political moochers are both mum and avaricious.

Do I mean to rebuke the happy people for trundling out to Wonderland to stuff their earnings over the sill and buy heartflops, fuzz on the larynx and abdominal icicles? I do not! It's their money! It's legal! Doubtless it has brightened many a jaded gent and lovely lady, which is reason enough for being.

I remember, back in 1935, of having typed an opus after snooping about the St. Petersburg, Fla., dog track. I said that greyhound racing had more honest possibilities than the horses. I still say so! And I think, too, that Wonderland has operated its whirligig honestly. But I also wrote in 1935 that such a form of moonlight madness, born in a state famed for its lunacies like ladies shopping in satin slacks and gents swallowing gin for breakfast—would not be acceptable to sane, sober and industrious people in this neck of the seaboard. I thought that New England's innate thrift would not support the dogs. I was wrong!

For, after six years, the sane, sober and industrious people dote on the dogs, shrugging off their lickings, which, after all, are THEIR lickings, as nobody can deny. But it is interesting to see how this licking works, which is something like this:

Of the $178,000 passed through the mutuel choppers each night, about one-fifth represents actual liquid cash brought to the track and run through the mill over and over again, or about $35,000. The track and state jointly take 15 per cent of the total sum bet ($178,000), or $26,000 and the breakage amounts to another $2600. The remainder, about $6900, or the original liquid $35,000, goes back to the customers in winning payoffs. Which gives one a rough idea of where their money goes, I might also add that the estimate of the one-fifth of each horse and dog total being the average amount of hard cash brought to the tracks as operating capital, I, not my estimate but that given me by the state race commissioner, Mr. Charles Connors, some years ago.

WELL, LET'S TAKE MORAL STOCK! After six years of an intensive round of track gambling between the months of early May and late November, life seems about the same. The moralists who predicted that dog racing would bring an underworld reunion and overrun this area with unvirtuous

IT'S THIS YEAR OR NEVER WITH CRONIN'S RED SOX

By HERB FINNEGAN

The second half of the major league baseball campaign got under way this day, and as the Red Sox tangled with the White Sox at Fenway Park one could not help but wonder what the future holds for the men of Cronin.

They finished the first half of the season 2½ games off the pace with a 41-31 record, a gait of .560, which is not good enough to win the pennant. Can they improve enough over the second half to take up the slack?

Let's see.

They have dropped Mickey Harris and Bill Butland from the pitching roster and have added Alex Murtaikis and Earl Johnson.

Whether that is an improvement is conjectural, for Harris and Butland had fine minor league records before they came up, and if they weren't ready for the big time, it is difficult to figure how a 20-year-old kid like Johnson could be, a kid whose only professional experience has been with Rocky Mount of the Piedmont League this season.

UP TO VETERANS

Johnson had a great record there, to be sure, winning 12 and losing four, and he proved to one

Earl Johnson

and all at Sarasota that he had an excellent curve ball which he could control. He's a fine prospect, no doubt, but in the south the Sox said he was two or three years away.

Whether he is or not, doesn't matter much because neither Murtaikis nor Johnson figures to win the pennant for the Sox.

If the club is to come through veterans like Ostermueller, Wilson and Dickman will have to work more often and more successfully than they did in the first half. And Mr. Grove will have to pitch as well as he did in Washington last week, every time he goes to the hill.

The Sox are stronger in the outfield than expected. Williams is happy in his new cleanup berth, and should hit even better than he did before the halfway mark. Finney has been sensational and can be expected to continue the pace if they keep him out of the leadoff spot.

NO REPLACEMENTS

Di Maggio's fast running and fielding will be a big asset if he gets in there often enough to make his presence felt. And Stanley Spence, up from Louisville, will pinch hit far more successfully than Lee Nonnenkamp ever did.

Behind the bat they're still sour. Desautels just doesn't hit and the Sox have shown no great confidence in Joe Glenn.

In the infield they have been below par. Foxx has not been having one of his good years. Cronin has slowed up perceptibly in the

Caseys Play Roslindale

Fallon Field will be the scene of twi diamond drama tonight when the Roslindale Town Club returns home in second place in the Boston Park League's East division, to do battle with the traditional and formidable Town Club foe, Dick Casey Club of Dorchester.

First to upset the Caseys after the Dorchester juggernaut had rolled up a thirteen game unbeaten stretch in the first Fallon Field meeting, Townies will again use the combination of Ace Healy's righthand hurling and the lefthanded slants of Johnny Grimley, in reserve, to halt the Caseys.

In his last Fallon Field appearance for Casey, Jackowitz established a Park League consecutive strikeout record, fanning 14 batters in successive outs, to lose the game.

Jack will face the Townies tonight for a repeat Healy Jackowitz duel-to-the-finish.

Artesani Club of Alston, sharing second place with the advancing St. Alphonsus Club in the West division, tonight appears at Charlestown where the Navy Yard's heaviest gun in the form of the veteran righthander and former Red Sox chucker, Curt Fullerton, will command the tars' bridge.

In the third and final clash carded, St. Alphonsus, bolstered by two wins last week after a disastrous June, plays the East division-al leading West Roxbury club at Billings. Joey McDermott is due for the Saints' hurling duties.

Pets Face N. J. Nine

JUNE IN JULY—Mary Ellen Clifford, daughter of Raynham's publicity director, spends July morning at new track with June Breeze. Raynham gets under way July 23. Track will be completed ahead of schedule.

Schoolings Start Tomorrow At New Raynham Dog Track

Record-breaking performances are expected at Raynham Park, Raynham America's newest, most beautiful and fastest greyhound track, which opens July 23.

Upwards of 500 greyhounds are already at the track, with schoolings scheduled to start tomorrow.

The greyhounds represent the cream of the racing talent and, given an opportunity on this newest and speedy track, new records for the established distances, the futurity, five-sixteenths and seven-sixteenths are certain to be record, in the opinion of the greyhound owners who have thus far visited the track.

Greyhound owners are impressed with this newest track with its 22 foot wide racing strip, the extended turn upon which "Swifty" will ride and the absence of sharp turns, which will eliminate crowding and bumping.

General Manager Russell Murray has announced that the New Haven Railroad will run a special train, "The Raynham Racer," out of the South Station each evening at 7:05 p. m. to give patrons of the track a speedy and comfortable ride to Raynham Park. The train will make stops at Back Bay and Hyde Park.

Round trip tickets, including admission to the park, will be sold.

Special buses from important centers also have been arranged for and for those who desire to travel in their own cars, the accessibility of the track pleases, since it is directly on Route 138.

Mary Pratt to Face Linden Girls Tonight

The Linden Girls of Newark, N. J., hailed as one of the best girls, softball teams in the East, invade the Boston Garden tonight for an important engagement with Boston's Olympets, also touted in a class of champions in the feature game of the weekly doubleheader.

After looking around for the best teams to battle his Pets and give the customers a run for their money, Walter Brown finally was convinced that New England clubs were not in the same class as the local favorites and had to seek elsewhere.

In the Skeeter State outfit Brown has come up with the Atlantic Seaboard Champions.

The opening game also promises some startling fireworks. The Rhode Islanders played the Norumbega Girls an exhibition game earlier in the season and the Pets came out on top in a thrilling contest.

KEN CORCORAN PRIME FAVORITE TO COP AMATEUR

By BILL GRIMES

WEST PEABODY, July 11—For the first time in the memory of the oldest observer the draw for match play in the 36th Massachusetts amateur championship clicked not only with the experts but also the contender:

C. Campbell Patterson, president of the M. G. A., has been a close follower of state amateur championships for many years. He knows more about the ability of "simon pure" golfers than any observer in the state. He was so well posted that at the end of the first round he predicted the 156's would play off. And, he hit it right on the nose.

There are six outstanding gilfers in each quarter. Such a distribution of the strength of the qualifiers has never been equaled. Usually, there is a weak bracket and at least one quarter which is studded with stars.

In the upper quarter, Mel Merritt, the medalist, is out with Allan V. Ellis, The Country Club, and despite the fact that Mel is hot and is out there with a thorough knowledge of the course, the former Dartmouth star hasn't a push-over for his first round opponent.

Mel Demarais, Haverhill, rated as one of the best young golfers in the Bay State, is right behind the Merritt-Ellis Match, trying to get by Bill Murphy, Jr., of the home club. Then came Sam Videtta, North Shore, who tied for the runner up with a pair of 73s, batting Fred Hannon, the long hitter from South Shore.

At the bottom of the first bracket is Edward Martin, Trapelo, and Ed Franzeim, Bellevue. Martin has the call over the Bellevue boy but it will be just as well for the twin to keep his mind on his knitting for Franzeim is a very good golfer and a fine competitor.

The second bracket is no soft touch. Joe Lynch, the 1933 title holder, is playing F. O. Adams, Winchester, who isn't so well known as his opponent but nevertheless is a real golfer. Frank Janussa, Lexington, and Ted Tabor, Vesper, the junior champion of the state, teed off after Lynch and Adams.

They are products of the William Randolph Hearst New England championships, for neither had ever played in a championship until they entered the "Hearst."

Gerry Anderson, Green Hill, twice winner of the state caddy title and also a former junior champion, is playing Davie Sullivan, a 17-year-old boy from Blue Hill, who is the youngest qualifier in the field.

Ted Bishop, Woodland, the "uncrowned amateur champion of the state" is matching holes with Art McCarthy, North Shore.

CORCORAN VS EARLEY

Ken Corcoran, who is favored in many quarters to succeed Teddy Adams as the king of the Bay State amateurs, drew a tough first round opponent in Clarence Earley of the home club, and the same is true of Ray Marad, George Wright, who was the unsuccessful finalist a year ago at Tedesco, for Ray is pitted against another public links player, Leo Hehir, Green Hill. And, by the way of no harm, don't sell Marad cheap

Bobby Knowles, who established a new competitive amateur record for the course yesterday by posting a 70, is playing Bill Fuller of the home club, and R. W. "Bunny" Wilson, the pride of the South Shore C. C., is out with another member of the entertaining club, Jackie Sheehy.

LEO MARTIN VS. HILL

Like his twin, Edward, Leo Martin, a former caddy champion of the state, has a tough opponent in Fred Hill, Green Hill, who is the New England public links champion.

Fred never qualified before in a state amateur championship. On his two previous tries he picked up.

In all probability the most under-rated golfer in the entire field is Maurice Meeker, Bellevue, who is playing Johnny Nies, United Shoe. Nies was a finalist at The Country Club in 1934, and this match will be well worth watching and may furnish an upset.

CROSSLEY DANGEROUS

The Don Karra-Leo Brown match should be a "dog fight." Karra, who represents North Shore, finished two strokes behind Mel Merritt in the qualifying round, and boasts of a very sound game, while Leo Brown has been bad news in state championships for many years.

The final match to get the "all clear ahead" sign from "Rommie" Tirrell, the M. G. A. starter, was Wilfred Crossley, a former state junior and the ex-New England amateur title holder, and Ernie Krig, New Bedford. Crossley has been a week-end golfer for some years, but he's still a stern opponent, while Krig is another Hearst product who is liable to knock off any rival if he's "hot."

The survivors of the first round will be back in action this afternoon, and there will be two 18-hole rounds tomorrow and the finals will be over the 36-hole route on Saturday.

Sickle T. Makes Up For Butler Slip

Mrs. B. F. Whitaker's Sickle T. didn't look so terrific in the Butler Handicap, but he made his owner forget that disappointment with a smashing showing yesterday in winning the Gramatan Handicap of a mile and a furlong at Empire City.

Favorite at even money and top-weighted at 122 pounds, he defeated four other Class C horses with a 1.52 1-5 performance that gave him a length over Sandy Boot, with Pretty Pat three lengths farther behind.

Dodger Hugh Casey In Fair Condition After Beaning K.O.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 11 (AP)—"Beaned" by a pitched ball in an exhibition game, Hugh Casey, 26-year-old pitcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers, was held under observation in Mercy Hospital today for a possible skull injury.

Casey was struck on the head while pinch-hitting for Outfielder Dixie Walker last night. He was knocked out, but revived quickly and was taken to his hotel room. There he collapsed and was rushed to the hospital.

CONDITION FAIRLY GOOD

Later an attendant said:

"He has a pretty good bump on the head, but the doctor doesn't think it's a fracture. If an x-ray doesn't show anything, he will be released today.

"He rested very well last night and his condition is fairly good."

Casey, a native of Atlanta, Ga., is under the care of Dr. W. J. Murray, prominent Johnstown surgeon.

Vince Shupe, 21-year-old Johnstown southpaw who traveled with the Dodgers last year as a batting practice pitcher, threw the ball that struck Casey.

DUCKS IN VAIN

Shupe went into the game as a relife pitcher in the fourth inning and his first ball caught Casey on the top of the head as the Dodger hurler dropped to the ground in an attempt to avoid it.

The game wound up with Brooklyn beating Johnstown of the Penn State Ass'n, a Dodgers' farm, 15-10.

Several recent "beanings" of baseball players have brought suggestions they wear a helmet while at the plate.

Sforza Whips Doyle In Dilboy 126 Final

Al Sforza, Boston, defeated Francis Doyle of Roxbury in the 126-pound final of the weekly amateur boxing show staged by the George F. Dilboy Post, V. F. W., at Dilboy Field, Somerville.

Of the 19 fights contested five ended in knockouts. The summary:

FINAL BOUTS

126-Pound Class—Al Sforza, Boston, defeated Francis Doyle, Roxbury, three rounds.

135-Pound Class—Jimmy Esposito Brookline, defeated Tom Shelden, Saugus, three rounds.

147-Pound Class—Raymond Buckless, Saugus, defeated Vincenzo Sardo, Revere, three rounds.

160-Pound Class—John Lycurgus, Boston, defeated Tony Earis, Nashua, N. H., one round.

SIGNS WITH REDSKINS

COLUMBUS, O., July 11 (AP)—Steve Andrako, center and captain of the 1939 Ohio State University football team, has signed a contract to play with the Washington Redskins of the National Football League during the 1940 season.

Jack Johnson Challenges Jack Dempsey

PORTLAND, Me., July 11 (AP)—Jack Johnson—age 62, weight 232—has challenged Jack Dempsey to a bout for charity, but "it must be only from three to six rounds."

The Negro former world heavyweight champion, who has been making appearances with dance bands in night clubs, said such a bout would be "a lot of fun and draw a lot of people."

Dempsey, who won the title from Jess Willard, the man who took the championship belt from Johnson, recently flirted with a comeback by knocking out a wrestler in a "special bout."

Diamond Gems

Many ball players have ridden to fame on the results of a single inning's work . . . In 1890 Ed Cartwright of St. Louis in the American Association rocketed two homers in the third inning against Philadelphia. The first came with the bases full while the second was with two on . . . On Aug. 3, 1914, Catcher Les Nunamaker of the Yankees nailed three Detroiters trying to steal in the second inning . . . Walter Johnson got credit for four strikeouts in the fifth inning of a 1911 game with the Red Sox when the Washington catcher dropped a third strike and the batter reached first safely.

Jack Howard, who recently severed his connections with the B. F. Whitaker stable, will campaign his own string next season. The former has 10 yearlings on his farm at Lexington, Ky., and is very much excited about a daughter of Blue Larkspur.

Bees, Cubs Play Two

CHICAGO, July 11—Starting the second half of the season in a much more buoyant mood than the first half, Casey Stengel's Bees were eager to tie into the Chicago Cubs in a double header at Wrigley Field this afternoon.

Stengel, exultant over the play of his youngsters in whipping the Dodgers twice last Sunday and particularly over the heroic performance of Max West in the all-star game Tuesday, announced this morning that he would pitch Dick Errickson against the Cubs' Larry French and Claude Passeau this afternoon.

West himself, injured when he crashed into the right field wall at Sportsman's Park, Tuesday, would be in center field, Stengel added.

Errickson has been the club's leading pitcher this season, and Sullivan pitched exceedingly well for 10 innings in the 20-inning duel which the Bees dropped to the Dodgers last week. So prospects of getting away for a fast second half start were bright.

With Manny Salvo giving the pitchers a most unexpected lift, and kids like Sebby Sisti and Chet Ross playing better than ever, the Bees are already predicting a first division berth for themselves before the summer runs its course.

Chicago, in fourth place, is only 7½ games ahead of the Bees, and the Boston clan promised today that that margin would be reduced to 5½ by nightfall.

Diz on Mound In Texas All-Star Tilt

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 11 (AP)—Dizzy Dean, the great pitcher with the tired arm, gets one more curtain call from baseball's fandom tonight.

The tall farm boy, just 29, will toe the mound as the starting pitcher for the northern division in the Texas League's annual all-star game before an expected throng of 8000.

Shipped back to the minors only a few weeks ago by the Chicago Cubs after his worn arm failed to respond in major league tests, Diz has a good won and lost record since returning to the Texas League—but the real story has been veiled.

Dean has been able to last only one of five games. Relief hurlers saved his hide on four occasions.

characters, and that the gambling saucers, would soak up all the spare wealth, have lapsed into silence. There are, probably, no more frowsy types around than there were before. And the people seem to be digging up new wealth from mysterious sources. And the so-called "fester spot" as the moralists called Wonderland, has turned into themost Golden Goose in the realm of sport, a short husband call away from Revere's street of delirious delight where barrel organs screech and the summer hordes come to seek new sensations. Life grows, as Alice remarked in the original Wonderland book, "curiouser and curiouser."

Jordan Nine Wins Over Chandler's

The Jordan Marsh nine triumphed over Chandler's by a score of 6 to 2 last night at the South Boston Stadium. The game was featured by a home run by Dave Conroy and 11 strikeouts by Kiley to help win the game for Jordan's.

FLETCHER TAKES OVER

Aubrey Fletcher, who was first assistant to the late W. B. Streett, has taken over the horses owned by S. A. Warner Baltazzi and the Mill River stable.

field. He strated to slip on the last western trip of '39 and hasn't recovered since.

Whether the July sun thaws out his aging sinews enough to accelerate his movements remains to be seen. A decided pickup in his fielding is needed if the Sox are to stay in the race.

And there isn't any replacement in sight for him. At Fenway Park or at Louisville.

That is the pity of the Reese case. If the Sox had a rabbit like Reese at short, Cronin could coast at third base, and there's little doubt that he'd be hitting much better with the tension off his fielding.

One thing in the Sox favor is that neither Cleveland, Detroit nor the Yanks act as if they want the flag. Detroit was only half a game in front of Cleveland today, and if the underpinnings of Gehringer and Bartell tighten up on the sun-baked diamonds during the summer, they will be in a bad way despite their great pitching.

THIS YEAR OR NEVER

The Sox have got a chance, all right, but they'll have to grasp it by the handle right away.

It's up to Cronin and it's up to his veteran pitchers. If they don't show a decided improvement against the Western clubs during this homestay, they might just as well tear the club apart and start building for the future. It's this year or never.

CHALLEDON

"I never believed in racing three-year-olds against older horses," said Hurley. "Col. Bradley is in racing for the sport. He likes to see his colors come down in front, but he does not approve of any of his horses competing where they have not a good sporting chance of winning.

"Older horses have a decided edge on three-year-olds in handicaps. I believe racing benefits if three-year-olds race against thoroughbreds of their own age and permit the older horses to compete against each other."

Challedon, off his race against Many Stings, will be the horse to beat in the Massachusetts Handicap. The big horse that beat Johnstown in the Preakness in 1939 was never better than he is today.

There are many good judges of horse flesh who believe that Challedon is the best horse running today.

Fighting Fox will be at Suffolk Downs on next Wednesday afternoon to try to repeat his triumph of a year ago when he finished first in the Massachusetts Handicap.

While Challedon will undoubtedly go to the post a favorite, anything can happen in a handicap. Racing Secretary Charley McLennan has allotted the weights in a manner that he feels will result in the Suffolk Downs feature being a close race.

Good track conditions from now through Wednesday will be helpful to the trainers. It is necessary to have a fast track for the training period as well as for the race itself if Challedon, Fighting Fox, Many Stings and other expected starters in the Massachusetts Handicap are to do themselves justice.

National League Defensive Strength Better

THE ALL-STAR GAME at St. Louis was additional proof that the defensive strength of the National League is better than that of the American League. While American League clubs have been specializing in home run hitting, National League players have been devoting considerable time and effort to building up their defense. One usually sees a smarter brand of baseball in the National League even though it lacks the home run thrills of the younger organization.

National League pitchers have reached a high degree of efficiency. Jimmy Foxx and other American League batters who have opposed Paul Derringer of the Reds will tell you that Bill McKechnie's star is the best pitcher in baseball.

Boston fans were jubilant over the spendid showing Max West made in the All-Star game. West's three-run homer in the first inning off Charley Ruffing gave the National Leaguers a margin that Joe Cronin's outfit could not overcome.

The long run of victories scored by the Yankees in world's series clashes took away from National League prestige. Now that the National Leaguers are able to win All-Star games they may go on to take a world's series. It would help baseball as a whole if a National League team were to win the world's series.

TEMPLE CAPTAIN PRO

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Ed McGee, captain and guard on last year's Temple University football team, has forwarded his signed contract to the New York Giants of the National Professional League.

NARRAGANSETT PLANS 'OPEN HOUSE' SUNDAYS

PAWTUCKET, July 11—Open house days will be celebrated next Sunday and Sunday, July 21, at Narragansett Park, where the fastest harness horses in the country are gathering for the Grand Circuit meeting to be held July 20-Aug. 3.

On both Sundays the entire racing plant will be thrown open to visitors, who will be welcomed at the stables, where veteran horsemen will explain the intricacies of light harness racing.

GREYHOUND TO APPEAR

Among the horses which will work this weekend will be several of the string of W. N. Reynolds of Winston-Salem, N. C., president of the American Tobacco Co. This big stable, trained and driven by the veteran Ben White will arrive here Friday.

White is sending along two assistant drivers, one of them the famous Will Caton, to handle the Sunday workouts. Several horses owned by members of the Metropolitan Driving Club of Boston, and trained by Ralston Brothers, will also work Sunday.

The great Greyhound, 1:55¼, will head the main contingent of horses coming here direct from Goshen, N. Y., next week. Greyhound; Peter Astra (winner of last year's Hambletonian Stakes); Bagpiper, Boyne; Clever Hanover and other greats of the trotting world, will be'd open house on Sunday, July 21.

DAILY WORKOUTS

Greyhound, expected to be the magnet of horse lovers from all over New England, will be quartered in Barn 3, where trainer-driver Sep Palin will play host.

Harness horse trainers customarily work their charges several miles each day, and these works frequently develop into brushes which have all the thrill of a real race.

With all the best trotters and pacers in the country concentrated at Narragansett Park, and with the leading trainers and drivers eager to explain the rules and methods of harness racing, open house days should do much to stimulate and create a widened interest in the sport here in New England.
